John Norman is a smart and sensitive young man who has just joined the Earth Exploration Army in order to earn money for college. The training is difficult, but soon he passes a selection test to go on a mission to the gas giant planet, Harignot. The army 's mission (or so they are led to believe) is to capture the plans for a dangerous weapon called the anti-matter cannon. In the midst of the mission, John is captured and imprisoned where he meets the beautiful female Harignot, Amerta. After hearing that John is to be executed, Amerta helps him to escape. What follows is a race against time to stop the human army from carrying out their real mission. In the midst of everything, the two lovers get to know one another. Will John and Amerta be able to complete their mission and live out their lives in happiness together?

Horton's elegiac anthology of 15 mostly hard SF stories illuminates a broad spectrum of grief over love thwarted through time, space, human frailty or alien intervention, from the gentle melancholy of Michael Swanwick's "Triceratops Summer," which posits tame Technicolored time-warped dinosaurs in Vermont, to newcomer Leah Bobet's "Bliss," an agonizing riff on near-future drug addiction. Several selections address current political-social issues, like Mary Rosenblum's "Search Engine," which extrapolates today's technology to chilling, Big Brotherly results. The long closing story, Alastair Reynolds's "Understanding Space and Time," however, presents a ray of cosmic hope: the sole survivor of a plague that decimated humanity is rescued and healed by intergalactic entities and lives out millennia while seeking ultimate truths, returning to see mankind regenerated. This anthology reflects the concerns of the genre today—and the apparent inability of our society to do anything about them. -- Publishers Weekly

In this humorous mashup of cozy mystery and science fiction, national bestselling author Diane Vallere gives a space academy dropout one chance to prove she fits in — while putting her amateur sleuthing skills to work on solving a mystery on a spaceship. Sylvia Stryker wants a job on a cruise ship. A family scandal led to a white lie. Will a dead body in her ward change the trajectory of her life? Sylvia Stryker used to help run her parents' dry ice farm, until her dad's arrest nearly left them bankrupt. But after finagling a job on board an outer space cruise ship, she's ready to explore all that outer space has to offer. With a private room in the staff quarters, her robot cat by her side, and the responsibilities of uniform management, Sylvia is thrilled to return to work — until she discovers the second navigation officer dead in the inventory

Seven years ago, Alister and Samson watched everything they had ever loved or tried to protect burn. They ' d been too young, too inexperienced to save their people, and so they ' d ended up hiding, running away and leaving rather than face being killed with the rest. The shame of that haunts them still, but they don ' t talk about it. Instead, the twin brothers work as traders and explorers, finding rare things on far off planets and bringing them to people who are willing to pay high prices for them. When their business is slow, they sometimes accept bounties, hunting down criminals or rare animals and other creatures for those too lazy to hunt for themselves. When a bounty for more money than either of them has ever seen comes in, they can't turn it down, even when it turns out that the collector they'd be hunting for wants a human woman for his collection. In order to find a human woman, they have to go to Earth, and when they get there, it's nothing like they expected. For one, the planet is under attack. For another, there are human women everywhere, and none of them are easy to catch. Samson is all for grabbing one and getting the hell out of there, but Alister seems to want to stay. The more they learn about Earth, the more they end up wanting to save it, but neither of them have fought in seven years, and they're terrified of letting down the people of Earth the same way they failed their own people. They don't even have an army, but it turns out that they might be able to borrow one. If they fulfill the bounty they came to Earth for, anyway...

women destined to be their mates. Sparks will fly, along with adventure, romance, and action. DRACE Rachel Harkett's temp job gets a lot more interesting when Drace, an injured, gorgeous hunk of a guy, staggers in her office after hours. He's tall, ripped, has color-changing tattoos, and says he's being followed by a shadowy government agency. He heals so fast, he can't be human. Rachel can deal with the fact that Drace is an alien from a massive base ship circling Earth, but she can't accept his claims that the intense attraction blazing between them is because she is his true, biological mate. When agents close in, the two go on the run to find Drace's shuttle so he can return home. What Rachel doesn't count on is Drace taking her to his base ship with him. RAZE Who knew a hike in the woods would lead to a gorgeous alien warrior scooping her off her feet? Sofia Lorenz is overwhelmed by Raze's size and strength, but the lust she feels for him has to be an alien mind trick! When she and Raze are abducted by human agents and locked together in a forced breeding facility, certain truth about their attraction come to light. Sofia will have to decide if she can accept Raze and the changes that come with being a Baylan warrior's mate. ARTEN After teaming up to free a fellow Baylan and his human mate from a secret alien testing facility, Arten Dal-Allean has been keeping research scientist, Chloe Riker, safely in hiding. Now, the powerful people running the facility want her dead and the details of a human-Baylan peace agreement make taking her aboard his ship a big risk in the fragile negotiations. When she's abducted from under his nose, Arten has to decide how far he will go for a woman who can never be his. Chloe may awaken all his protective and passionate instincts, but no soul marks appear on his chest to indicate she is his biological mate. Arten has always played by the rules—he made most of them—but how many will he break to make her his? You won't find cliffhangers or cheating in my books. I write what I love to read, so there is always consent and always a happy ending.

Cliffhanger! One fateful night with a strange cyborg warrior whose name she doesn't even know changes Cathleen's life. Just barely starting her career as a scientist, she is suddenly thrown into the unknown world of motherhood. Now living in a quiet town to have a fresh start, her work as a lab assistant brings her past back into the limelight when she suddenly finds herself face-to-face with the father of her son, Shawn Armstead. Shawn arrives in town leading a platoon of cyborgs, to have a series of drills in the mountainside and to ensure protection from possible alien attacks. When Cathleen is assigned by her boss to work closely with Shawn, the physical attraction between them returns--- with much greater force than before. She tries her best to steer clear of him and to hide the truth about her son. But an alien attack injures her son, leading him to develop a close relationship with his rescuer who is no other than his real dad. Now that the 6-year-old also has bionic body parts which draws him more to Shawn, will Cathleen be able to prevent the worked his way up to Captain. A gifted pilot, fighter, and hunter, Silas is on the first line of defense when the remnants of the Fremeri race think to try to overtake planet Gathra. He ends up in a fight with them, chasing them through space, and when his ship goes down, he ends up being sent through a wormhole like path and can only hope he comes out somewhere safe. He crash lands on Earth with his communications down and no way to get back to where he's meant to be. It's there that he meets Katia, the bright and cheery owner of an Inn, who's coming back from work when she finds Silas bleeding and in need of help. She's never seen anyone who looks like him before, and when he explains who he is, she's stunned. All the military knowledge in the universe won't help Silas with his growing feelings for the human woman, and when the Fremeri set their sights on Earth, his heart and his duty will collide.

Cast out from his own world after losing a long battle against the madman named Jindom. Thrown to Earth through a portal, abandoned to fend for himself, alone and alienated from his people. Alienated. Alien. That's what he was considered in this world. An alien. An unknown. It was hard to think of himself as alien, or even different. But to these people on this planet, he was an anomaly, something to be feared, perhaps even dissected. The Priejsthaed had sent him to Earth for his own protection. They thought he would be safe there. They were wrong. Jindom had discovered his location and now Kael Jai must not only fight for his life but also find a way to restore peace on his home-world of Trinoor. And save Earth from the powerful war machines sent there to kill him. Excerpt: The girl hesitated for a fraction of a second, her eyes darting to the Sulcrum, and then she threw the blade in Kael's direction. Kael took three giant strides toward her, one arm outstretched to catch the heavy Strongblade, leapt into the air and used one leg against a nearby lamppost to stop his momentum and turn himself around to face the Sulcrum. He caught the blade neatly and deftly turned it in his hand, his fingers clenched around the metal hilt. Still in motion, he launched himself off the pole and met the Sulcrum as it hurtled toward him. The blade sank deep into the weak point just below the Sulcrum's chin and stuck out the other side. Kael gave the blade a violent twist left then right and stepped sideways as the forward momentum of the Sulcrum's body continued past him and rammed into the glass window of the very store Kael had been standing in front of just minutes earlier. Shards of glass flew in all directions as the heavy metal body of the Sulcrum came to a halt in the middle of the now destroyed store display. The woman stared at the machine's head as it fell at Kael's feet. For a moment, Kael stood with his arm still outstretched, blade extended outward, muscles tensed and bulging, and his chest heaving as he worked to catch his breath. His eyes were glued to the woman. A second later, he vaulted towards her, grabbed her by the hand, and began running away from the storefront as fast as he could drag his baggage behind him. She was small and couldn't keep up with him. Frustrated, he stopped. She immediately slammed into the back of him. "Ow! Damn you! Where are you taking me!" she yelled at him. "Away from here," he yelled back. Without saying another word, he picked her up like she was a sack of potatoes, dumped her over his shoulder, and ran down the street with her bouncing against his back. She wound her fingers into his shirt and held on tight to try and stop the mind-numbing bounce of her head. "I...w-want to kn-know...where the hell you're t-t-taking me!" she shrieked, her words coming out in gasps as her stomach bounced painfully against his shoulder. Just as the last word was leaving her lips, the Sulcrum exploded in a massive ball of fire that sent bricks, glass, metal, and parts of mannequins flying across the street. Kael kept running. The woman was too winded to scream when the explosion ripped through the store. Sirens howled in the distance, fire trucks and police cars already trying to make their way through the city streets to get to the odd scene that citizens had surely reported. Only minutes had passed since the Sulcrum's arrival, but there was enough chaos and damage on the street to make it look like a terrorist attack. Another explosion rocked the atmosphere, the sound reverberating off the tall buildings around them. The Sulcrum's head, exploding just minutes after the body's self-destruct. Kael kept running. He had to get as far away from the scene as possible, as fast as possible. He ran a mile before he finally stopped and put the woman down. Tears streaked her cheeks, and her nose was red and wet from crying. She wobbled on her feet and shoved her long blonde hair out of her face to get a good look at him. Kael was barely panting from the long run. Running with her weight on his shoulder hadn't even winded him. His luminous green eyes stared down into her face, assessing her emotions and her physical state. "What the hell was that...that...thing back there!" she demanded. "A Sulcrum," he answered succinctly. He reached for her hand. She snatched it out of his way so that he couldn't take hold of it. He frowned. "You must come with me." "The hell you say! I don't have to go anywhere with you! You nearly got me killed back there!" He reached for her hand again. Again, she moved out of his grasp. "I want to know why the man in that armor was trying to kill you, and why you are running with me!" "There's no time for that. We have to get as far away as possible, as fast as possible. Every delay could mean the death of us." "Why? And why we? Why do I have to go with you? What the hell is going on?" She ended in a near-scream of fury and frustration. "The Sulcrum is not a man. It's a machine. A very deadly one," Kael explained. The woman glanced at him nervously. She looked dazed, confused, and he could smell the terror thrumming through her bloodstream.

"You've been imprinted," he stated.

"Wha-What does that mean?" "It means that you are in danger. You must come with me." Her eyes were beautiful. He'd just noticed. Deep as a crystal clear blue spring on Trinoor. Her hair the color of the corn silk he'd seen stripped from the ears in the farmers market. Skin fair, smooth, and clear. Next to his 6' 5" frame, she was tiny, probably no more than 5'4". Not that it mattered. She was under his protection now. Like it or not, he couldn't leave her. She opened her mouth to say something, but the words were cut short when he grabbed her by the hand and pulled her down the side street. "We must get out of sight." She tried to twist her hand out of his, but his grip was too firm. "Why should I come with you?" She yelled the words at the back of his head. He turned abruptly and put a large hand over her mouth to shut her up. Leaning down close so she could look into the depth of his eyes, he said very clearly, "If you want to remain alive, you will follow me to the ends of your planet if need be, without hesitation and without argument." Her eyes were wide with fear, and he could feel her heart thrumming hard against his abdomen. The energy of it beat the air between them, reaching out to strum his nervous system. His senses were at high alert, and he could see everything about her, smell everything, feel everything, like no human ever could. "I'm going to let go now. And you're going to be good and not scream. If you hold me back any longer, I will have no choice but to leave you behind, to protect myself. If I do that, you will die. Do you understand?" She nodded feebly, her cheeks pinched up above the meat of his palm. She looked like a pathetic little cartoon character on some earth show. When he didn't let go, she nodded more emphatically and grunted something from beneath his hand. He slowly lifted a few fingers. She didn't scream, so he withdrew his hand, but he remained vigilante. She gasped once for breath, straightened her shirt, swallowed hard, and nodded again. "Alright. I'm following you." Kael assessed her eyes to determine her truth. Satisfied that she would give him no more trouble, he looked around at his surroundings. Microwave and cell phone towers jutted from the tall building next to the abandoned one they stood beside. He turned and peered into the distance. The energy plant was too far away. This building would have to do, for now. He went to the door and looked through the glass. A small hallway led to an empty lobby. He jimmied the door and stepped inside. Old broken glass crunched beneath his boots. He pulled the girl in behind him and closed the door, locked it, and turned back to look around at the graffiti-covered walls. "What is this place?" the girl asked from behind him. "An abandoned office building," he said. "How do you know?" "I observe." Moving silently, his senses heightened and alert, he led her upstairs to the third floor. Glancing around as he went, he eased down the hallway until they came to a small room at the end of the hall. The girl followed him inside, but when he closed the door behind them

she seemed wary and nervous. Kael ignored her and assessed the room from ceiling to floor, then went and peered out the dirty window at the street beyond. Satisfied that he would not be battling his way through any more Sulcrums, at least for a short while, he turned to the only desk that sat to one side of the room. He crossed the room and sat down slowly in the dust-covered swivel chair. The girl looked around the room. "Why would anyone leave their office furniture behind?" "You ask a lot of questions." She shrugged. "I've always been curious by nature." "Questions can get you answers that you won't like to hear." She shrugged again. "Maybe. Maybe not. You didn't see me running from that big robot-thing, did you?" His eyes narrowed. She spoke the truth. She was the only one who had stood her ground. Not that sticking around had been the smart choice. "I know Tae Kwon Do. Been studying it since I was five-years-old," she said as she looked out the dirt-smearred window. "It teaches you to be bold." "There's a difference between boldness and stupidity," Kael replied.

File Type PDF Shipped To Him (SciFi Alien Romance Novel)

She turned to frown at him, her arms going across her chest. The position of her forearms thrust her breasts even higher, revealing a tiny bit of cleavage above her sweater. Her breath hung in the air, reminding him of just how cold she must be. The building's windows were mostly broken out, allowing for little shelter against the elements. "How old are you?" he asked. "Twenty-seven." "Your name?" She hesitated, her gaze turning toward the floor. "You first." "My name is Kael." "Kyle," she repeated. "Sounds like a perfectly harmless name. But you're not harmless. And you're not human either, are you?" "Kah-ell," he corrected her pronunciation. "All drawn together in a subtle way. And what makes you think I'm not human?" "Well, for starters, a man appeared out of thin air and called you master, and then this big shiny, chrome thing stepped out of the crowd and tried to break you in half. Now, I know the military, as advanced as we've become with our drones and weapons and such, doesn't have anything like that hulk, and as far as I know, humans can't appear out of thin air. Not to mention the sword that morphed out of its arm and then morphed back into an arm and then back into a sword, like magic. Plus, my friend swears aliens have been visiting us for ages, and...maybe you're one of them coming back to visit, or coming back to find something, or take something—" Kael stood up, effectively cutting off her speech. She took a step backward. He stopped. "I'm not going to hurt you." She repositioned her legs. Kael noticed that she had shifted her center of gravity and she was now on the balls of her feet. "Your Tae Kwon Do is no match for me." "We'll see about that," she retorted. "Now, if you don't start talking, I'm going to speed dial my cousin, who's a New York cop, and you'll be apprehended, taken to a secret government facility, where I'm sure you'll be more than happy to talk." Kael's mouth twitched at the corners as he held back a laugh. "You don't bluff well. You have no cousin who's a cop." Her chin lifted, and he saw the glint of defiance in her eyes. "How do you know that?" "Because I can tell when someone is lying." She opened her mouth to say something, then clamped it shut again. He smiled in satisfaction. "You and I are in danger. I plan on keeping us safe. But I must remind you that if you limit me in any way, I will have no choice but to abandon you and leave you to fend for yourself. You've seen what a Sulcrum can do, so I suggest you work with me not against me." She gulped hard but kept her gaze firmly on his. "Now, your name please." "Sarah. Connor." His frown deepened into a scowl. He was losing patience with this female. "Your real name," he growled as he took a menacing step toward her. She gulped again and took a step backward. Her back butted against the wall, stopping her from escaping. "Okay! Eva! My name is Eva!" She said the words in a rushed, desperate near-squeal. I don ' t believe in aliens. Having spent a lifetime in the army tends to beat out such fanciful notions. Being abducted by terrifying Reptile aliens and crashing on a frigid alien planet has opened my eyes. I usually rescue myself from missions gone wrong so I didn ' t expect any sort of help out of this mess, and certainly not from the kind of man my momma used to warn me about. Only she never mentioned sex-gods with glittering golden skin harbouring an attitude that died out a hundred years ago. If he thinks he ' s rescuing some kind of simpering, cowering women who will throw her panties out with her better judgment, he ' s found the wrong woman. What I don ' t expect is my inability to keep my hands to myself when he kisses me. He has the power to heal my heart, but I don ' t deserve that. This is not a safe planet. The inhabitants are mind-enclaved and I am battling a greater enemy than I ever thought could exist. This particular mission might be my last. I must fight beside Striker before our destinies and future of the universe is lost. This carefully created Garrett P. Serviss science fiction collection includes novels and short stories of this notable writer, astronomer and popularizer of astronomy. This book has been designed and formatted to the highest digital standards and adjusted for readability on all devices. Contents: Novels Edison's Conquest of Mars A Columbus of Space The Sky Pirate The Second Deluge Short Stories The Moon Metal As Earth's faster-than-light spaceship hung in the void between galaxies, Arcot, Wade, Morey and Fuller could see below them, like a vast shining horizon, the mass of stars that formed their own island universe. Morey worked a moment with his slide rule, then said, "We made good time! Twenty-nine light years in ten seconds! Yet you had it on at only half power...." Arcot pushed the control lever all the way to full power. The ship filled with the strain of flowing energy, and sparks snapped in the air of the control room as they raced at an inconceivable speed through the darkness of intergalactic space. But suddenly, far off to their left

Sci-fi Alien Abduction Romance

Alien's Challenge: A Sci-Fi Alien Romance

Not So Little Green Man (Scifi Alien Romance)

Stop me if you've heard this story before. One minute Alice was camping, trying to connect with nature, then there's this blinding white light. Gravity must have quit because Alice and her sleeping bag were floating off the ground. Classic alien abduction. She wakes up on an alien planet full of, you know, aliens. Outlaws. Rules are optional and people are property. So not cool. Then there's a train robbery and she's getting abducted. Again. But this guy? He's a giant lizard man, just a solid wall of muscle, scales, and bad attitude. He's dangerous and he's gone into a mating fever, which he says is her fault. So what is she going to do about it?

Better question, what is tall, dark and grumpy going to do about it? Two decades ago Faris was exiled to this prison planet. Only the strong survive here. He's too old for a mating fever but his body has other ideas. The human female was not part of the plan, an ordinary smash and grab, but she's his now. And he does not share. Alien's Challenge is a stand alone book in the Outlaw Planet Mates series. The books can be read in any order. No cliffhangers, no cheating and a HEA. "What the hell are you then? Bigfoot?" His spaceship crashed in Alaska... He's stranded in the bitter cold... on Earth. When the blue-skinned Devoran alien, Kronos, falls to earth, he encounters a gun-toting country girl, Jess, in the Alaskan wilderness. He saves her life and lust explodes between them... Jess realizes he's more than a scientific discovery. He can see into her mind... Into her heart... Jess captures Kronos to use him as her ticket out of The Last Frontier. Ropes and binds may keep Kronos captive, But they won't stop her desires... Desires she knows are very, very wrong. Kronos' first contact mission is steamier and filthier than he ever expected. This is a NO cliffhanger, guaranteed HEA series of alien science fiction romance standalone stories. While connected to the other novels, this book can be read as a standalone! This satisfying ultra-steamy sci-fi/fantasy story will satisfy your deepest cravings for romance with aliens that look like aliens. If you like romance with aliens that look like aliens... Take a peek inside and see for yourself...

A Standalone Short Story with No Cliffhanger! Roderick was eager to take over the throne and become king of planet Avant, but his father had other plans for him. The often stoic and disagreeable prince must first find a wife before he can 'inherit' the throne. The young, handsome prince drew plenty of attention from the females on his own planet easily enough, but he suspected they were just being nice to him because he was a prince. It wasn't easy to meet someone who treated him like a regular alien. Then his mother urges Roderick to travel to Earth, to search for woman who doesn't know him and could be a perfect wife. Roderick meets Isabella. He's drawn to her at first sight and knows that the beautiful woman from Earth is the one for him. Being a prince, Roderick just takes Isabella back to his home planet of Avant where he marries her and finally takes the throne as king. Isabella is stunned. She has no idea what she's been thrown into on Avant. All of a sudden she is married and queen of an entire planet. Will Isabella and Roderick get along? Will their marriage ever be a true one? --- TAGS: alpha male alien romance, alpha male romance, scifi alien romance, alien abduction romance, alpha male aliens, alien fantasy books, alien romance, aliens, scifi romance, Space opera romance, science fiction romance, steamy science fiction romance, hot aliens, fantasy alien romance, paranormal romance, military science fiction books, paranormal with sex, fantasy fiction, psychic romance, steamy paranormal romance, sci fi romance, sci-fi romance, Fated mates, alien mate, new adult, genetic engineering, alien contact, alpha male, farmland. So when a mysterious ship lands in front of her and invites her to take a chance on something else, she doesn't hesitate. Fleeing her planet, hostile forces open fire on her ship, and she has no choice but to send the ship through a wormhole. Clinging to life, she rockets out the other side... and plummets into the strong arms of a handsome soldier. After months of staring into empty space, Captain Jackson "Coop" Cooper is itching for some action. He gets it when a wormhole delivers an alien ship into their path. He volunteers to make first contact, rescuing the ship with its injured alien beauty and her unusual shipmate. Before they can get acquainted, new threats send them on a wild ride through the cosmos and into a mysterious sanctuary with no means of escape. With little time to sort out enemies and allies, Arian and Coop must work together to uncover the secret behind her hidden destiny if they stand any chance of surviving their future. an alien medical lab stumps even her brilliant mind. With a little help from her scheming parrot sidekick, she manages to push the right buttons and transport them to an uncharted planet...where they find a recently defrosted alien, who heats up Rachel. Valyr wasn't going to warm up to the bright-eyed scientist anytime soon...not after she pried centuries of cryosleep from his cold fingers. But waking up in the wrong century is nothing compared to the robots targeting his still-frozen team. And their situation only gets worse when he discovers the spiderweb of destruction trailing in the robots' wake. With their backs against the wall, Valyr is blown away by Rachel's determined passion in the face of impossible odds... but they'll need more than a chemical reaction to survive what is headed their way. Lost Valyr is the seventh standalone book in the explosive Project Enterprise sci-fi romance series. If you like heart-pounding chemistry, ragtag bands of misfits, and action-packed space battles, then you'll love Pauline Baird Jones' rollicking romance. About Maestra Rising: She's a gifted scientist. He's a robot with a human mind. Can they save a lost ship and find love among the stars? Nivi awakes from cryosleep plagued by guilt. The scientific genius had hoped her people would avoid war if she went into cold sleep, but she learns her sacrifice was in vain. And now a vicious enemy approaches a stranded Earth spaceship. Desperate to reactivate the

A SciFi Alien Romance Series

Aliens have been a major theme in science fiction literature from the very beginnings of the genre...though they seem to have morphed over the decades from humanoids (six-limbed and blue though they might be!) to the utterly incomprehensible to noncorporeal energy beings -- and everything in between! This collection focuses on aliens as depicted in many different forms over many different decades. While in no way comprehensive -- I'm not sure a "definitive" book of alien stories could ever be assembled -- we think this one is, at the very least, a lot of fun. Included are: THROUGH MUD ONE PICKS A WAY, by Tim Sullivan LABORATORY, by Jerome Bixby BEULAH, by Talmage Powell ALIEN STILL LIFE, by John Gregory Betancourt DEAD RINGER, by Lester del Rey ESCAPE TO EARTH, by Manly Banister LESSON IN SURVIVAL, by Frank Belknap Long SCIENTIFIC METHOD, by Chad Oliver THE BEES OF DEATH, by Robert Moore Williams THE BIG FIX, by Richard Wilson THE CARNIVORE,

Six genetically engineered aliens fleeing the destruction of their world get a second chance for life and love on planet Earth. This boxed set contains all six books of the series.

Chameleon: Alien Castaways 1 When his ship tumbles out of the sky and lands on Earth, Chameleon never expects to fall for a human woman. Unfortunately, he can't stay. His mistake led to the devastation of an entire planet, and now the survivors are depending on him to get them to safety. He must repair his ship and leave before the Xeno Consortium finds him and Earth becomes endangered, too. But oh, he wishes he could stay with Kevanne forever...

Wingman: Alien Castaways 2 Traumatized by the death of his family and the destruction of his planet, Wingman comes to Earth in search of a haven and the solitude to nurse his emotional wounds. When a chance decision foils a kidnapping, he's drawn into the life of a young widow and her daughter. But when dangers from Delia's past resurface, he'll have to conquer his demons to save her and her child.

Psy: Alien Castaways 3

File Type PDF Shipped To Him (SciFi Alien Romance Novel)

Soon after encountering the beautiful, shy Cassie, Psy realizes she's his genmate. It doesn't matter she can't talk—he loves her as she is. But as their telepathic connection deepens, he begins to suspect her inability to speak is more than a congenital happenstance. Something far more sinister appears to be keeping her a virtual prisoner. He's certain his psychic powers can unlock the secrets in Cassie's mind. But will revealing the truth liberate her...or destroy their bond? Shadow: Alien Castaways 4 Shadow's genetics have been programmed with a self-destruct sequence. If he doesn't bond with a genmate, he will fade from existence. He's hoping Mandy, the town's clairvoyant, can help him by finding his match. But what is an alien to do when attraction leads to love, and every indication shows Mandy is not his genmate? Will Shadow decide love is worth dying for? Inferno: Alien Castaways 5 Extraterrestrial Inferno has searched in vain for the one woman his Luciferan DNA has chosen for him. When he locates Geneva in the church of a small Idaho town, the last thing he expects is for her to throw him out as though he was Satan himself. How can he prove to the beautiful skeptic they are meant for each other when he can't even convince her he's an alien? Tigre: Alien Castaways 6 Tigre, a Saberian from planet 'Topia, instantly recognizes Kat as his genmate, so he doesn't hesitate to let her know. But by the disdainful curl of her lips, the stunning human lets him know she finds him lacking as a mate. If she doesn't want him—then he doesn't want her. But when the feral fever strikes, more than tempers get hot.

I found "The Hyperspace Project" to be an immensely enjoyable read. I kept picturing Harrison Ford, but with the Indiana Jones personality, but in a Blade Runner world as Nick Bannon. The pacing was great, Swan did an awesome job giving just enough description of the new technology and alien races without dragging the story into a grinding halt. The story had a feel good sense that I got from watching "Guardians of the Galaxy" - where you get to know the characters to the point where you actually want to meet them and have a few drinks at a dive bar to hear more stories. The dialogue and writing were top notch - and it was clear that this story was thought out before Swan committed it to paper. With all of the rehashes (really - can we do a Spiderman reboot just one more time please.....) it is nice to meet some new characters in a new adventure - and it doesn't have to end here, since Swan already has book two on the shelves. Highly recommend this book for lovers of sci fi!!!" - Nathan Merceron

"5 star sci-fi adventure - this book is FUN. The start of a new series, Book 1 : Awakenings does not disappoint. It has all the elements I desire in a good space adventure story - a reluctant hero fumbling his/her way through new alien space, interesting and unique aliens, exciting twists and turns, a good overall plot and a whole lot of fun. I am right on board the Hyperspace wagon, eagerly awaiting book 2, which means book 1 gets the OMGMOAR 5 star award from Tracing The Stars."

"A lost Queen.

An ancient prophecy. Worlds caught in an interstellar war between two malevolent alien races. Hyperspace, Nanites, Biomechanoids with a mysterious past. The Hyperspace Project is non-stop action and lots of fun." -John S.

"I really enjoyed this book. There is a lot of action, but it's well balanced. If you like Star Trek or shows like Stargate, then I think you'll like this book. Fun characters and a story that flows well. Some good futuristic science too. (Nanites, hyperspace, gadgets etc.) I only wish that the second book was already available. There is also an interesting extra chapter that can be unlocked with clues from the book. That added an extra bit of fun to it as well." -Sara, BestIndieBooks.com

<http://thehyperspaceproject.com> Excerpt: Karg woke to the sound of explosions rocking the ship. "Karg! Get to Bay One, we're about to have company!" Arya's voice demanded over his com-badge. Karg fell out of bed onto his knees. The rumble of multiple blasts to the hull rang through his room. "What...what's going on? Arya?" "Karg! Get your arsk to Bay One! Now!" The sounds of explosions on the bridge almost drowned out Arya's voice. "Raiders!" "Frek!" Karg grumbled. He flew out of the door into the corridor, driving a passing Meth into the wall as they collided. The Meth crewmember stumbled to his feet in his cumbersome environmental suit and continued on his way. Karg was too distracted to apologize. He hopped down the hallway attempting to get a foot into his boot and still shaking off his grogginess. He finally got his feet stuffed into his boots before rounding the corner into Bay One. The fury of plasma blasts hitting the hull reverberated through the hangar like a giant drum. "I'm in Bay One. What the hetek is going on out there?" Karg waited for what seemed like forever for an answer. The silence on the com had him worried. Finally, Arya replied. "Raiders. Everywhere. Too small and fast. Can't get a clear shot. Can't outrun them." Suddenly Karg's com-badge screeched and whined. Then a strange voice broke in. "Captain of the Ashok, surrender and I may let your crew live." Karg waited tensely through the long pause. Arya didn't appear to be responding to the raider's demands. "Let me talk to Arnon," the voice demanded. On the bridge, Arya sat tall and straight in the Captain's chair, glaring at the main view screen. An unkempt, scarred face stared back at her. Typical raider scum, in need of a good bath and some manners. At least over the vid-link she was spared from his stench. All her training and time spent watching Argos command the ship had prepared her for this moment. "Raider baskurt. This is Captain Arya of the Ashok. I have been lenient with you so far, but do not try my patience. Perhaps you have heard about how we recently destroyed a Mok'tu Star-Killer. Leave now or suffer the same fate." The commander of the raiders smirked. "Yeah I've heard of you alright. And I've heard about that weapon of yours. A weapon of that power would be worth a lot of credits. Way I hear it, that weapon could probably rip apart a whole planet. The fact that a craft that small can unleash that kind of power has me shakin' in my boots." The commander gave a sarcastic laugh. "The thing is...that weapon may be scary powerful when it's launched, but right now it's sitting safely aboard your ship. Now surrender before I take your ship apart, piece by piece!" Arya's mind raced. They knew about the hyperspace ship, but they thought it was still aboard the Ashok. How could she use that to her advantage? And Arnon? How did they know Arnon? "I've called your bluff, missy," the commander chided. "Time to pay up." "Commander Scumbag," she began, taunting him with insults. "I do not negotiate with raiders and especially not with the likes of you. You have ballusks, I'll give you that. I can't believe you would threaten the ship carrying the biggest, baddest weapon around. What the hetek were you thinking? You're such a patuke. I have nothing more to say to you. You're not even worth the effort of killing. Get out of my way, and I will let you live. And before you go making another brilliant decision in your colorful, yet undoubtedly short career, I ask you, how sure are you that this weapon can't be fired from within the walls of this vessel? Are you willing to bet your life on it?" The commander's reply was long in coming. The smaller raider vessels zipped around the Ashok like betiks on a syrup tree, continuing to fly hit and run maneuvers. The constant plasma blasts were beginning to weaken the Ashok's defenses. Finally the commander's voice broke the silence. "I understand. You have principles. You don't negotiate with raiders. That's one of your principles. But, you see, I don't have any of them principles. Life's much simpler that way. Know what I'm say'n'?" The commander grinned, one gold tooth shining amidst his decaying, food encrusted teeth. "It's a shame that a pretty thing like you is going to have to die, but now you're trying my patience!" Sirok sent a message to Arya's console with his wireless neural interface. The raiders had made it through the Ashok's collapsing shields and had blown off the outer door to Bay One. With the shields failing and the hull breached, there was nothing to stop them from entering the ship. Arya severed communications with the raiders, and the view screen went blank. The time for posturing was over. The raiders in this sector were notoriously dangerous and most likely one of the main reasons so few ever returned from Demented Space. "Sirok, you have the con. Patch everything through to my PDU." Arya held up her personal data unit, a handy, do about anything, reconfigurable on the fly, mobile gadget that she seldom left behind. "Tell Karg I'm headed down there, and get everyone you can to Bay One. We need to stop them from getting into the rest of the ship!" "Aye, Captain." Sirok busily typed on his console. His holo-display showed a diagram of the ship alongside a roster of the crew and their current locations. Arya turned as she entered the transport tube. "Lock down the bridge." The tube doors slid shut with a whoosh, and the tube sped down to the bay level. Sirok broadcasted a message to all hands, ordering them to defend the hangar bay. The bridge grew quiet. The bombardment had ceased. The raiders were now focused on taking the ship. Sirok put a priority-one lockdown in place, sealing off the bridge. Arya would be able to command the ship through her encrypted mobile data unit, but if all else failed, Sirok would have to take over command from the bridge. The protective mucus covering Sirok's body oozed faster. It was a natural bodily function for a Kymirian under stress, a vestige of his ancestry that allowed them to move quickly and replace the antibacterial covering at a more rapid rate. His nerves were beginning to get the best of him, and he could feel it in the thinning mucus running down his face. He knew that even with the bridge locked out the raiders could disable the engines and other systems if they infiltrated the ship. Arya slid to a stop next to Karg in Bay One. The force field in the bay was holding, but through the translucent wall of static, the ominous presence of the raiders was apparent. A boarding party was nearing the field, spreading into several groups. A handful of crewmembers ran into the bay behind Arya. Two Meths, a couple of Arisian ensigns, and Kyrk. Arya frowned. "That's it? That's all of you?" "Hull breach in the aft section," Kyrk responded "Five of the crew were there when it happened. Three didn't make it. The other two are trapped." Arya was all business. "Sket. It will have to do. Take cover. We draw the line here! Do you understand?" "Yes, Sir!" the crew replied in true military fashion. In front of them, the glove of an armored space suit pierced through the force field. "Karg! They're coming through! They must be using a field modulator." Another hand came through the force field, a pistol aimed and at the ready. Plasma blasts ricocheted off the metal crate in front of them as they ducked. "Open fire!" Arya commanded, as she popped up and fired several rounds at the raiders. A barrage of plasma bolts streaked back and forth across the bay. Puffs of smoke rose from the impacting balls of plasma, creating an early morning fog-like haze throughout the bay. -----

One questionnaire, a bit of blood, and a race to get away from the Department of Population, and she's got her wish—tall, sexy as hell, and occasionally green alien Vroe, the High Warlord of Vialea. Vroe aches for a mate who doesn't see him as just a rise in status. He wishes for warmth and affection and goes to Celestial Mates to find... Jassa Marizen. Yet his ideas about mating—Jassa mating him and forever being known as only Vrya—collide with hers. She doesn't want to lose her past. He wants her to embrace her future. And then there's this other woman... She just wants Vroe to herself.*

*From the inception of the science fiction film, writers, directors, producers, and actors have understood that the genre lends itself to a level of social commentary not available in other formats. Viewers find it easier to accept explorations of such issues as domestic violence, war, xenophobia, faith, identity, racism, and other difficult topics when the protagonists exist in future times or other worlds that are only vaguely similar to our own. The 22 original essays in this collection examine how the issues in particular science fiction films—from 1930's High Treason to 1999's The Iron Giant—reflect and comment on the prevailing issues of their time. The 16 writers (including such noted contributors as Ted Okuda, Gary Don Rhodes, Bryan Senn, John Soister and Ken Weiss) provide insight on how the genre's wistful daydreaming, forthcoming wonders, and nightmarish scenarios are often grounded in the grimmer realities of the human condition. Films covered include It Came from Outer Space, Godzilla, The 27th Day, Alien and Starship Troopers, plus television's The Adventures of Superman, the Flash Gordon serials, and*

My research ship crashed, stranding me on an alien planet with no hope of rescue. When I'm captured by frightening, green aliens and given to Graael, a brooding, scythe-wielding Destran male with chameleon-like skin and the darkest eyes I've ever seen, I don't know whether to cower before him or kiss him. I've spent my life puzzling out the human psyche, but can I get through Graael's formidable walls? I am Graael, lord of my living, symbiont ship and protector of the Destran population living in it. I have enough problems trying to free my ship from the rocky crevice its trapped in. I am not pleased when I'm presented with a "gift" of a frightened human female by the locals. I have no use for the small, alien female, but I can't send her into the dangerous wilds where she'll be killed. What am I to do with the beautiful woman with the dark blue eyes and a smile that lights up my dark world? As enemies close in with plans to take over Graael's ship and extract the powerful drug it produces, Graael and Lexi must find a way to hold them off and free the ship, but little do
