This is an anthology of stories submitted by survivors of sexual assault, harassment, and domestic violence. It's a means to speak out about what many endure in silence. Our mission is to break that silence and create something fierce and relevant. In this book you will enter the world of survivors. The terrain is uneven and rocky. The journey from victim to survivor has formed a community of writers who are fearless in sharing their experiences. Janet Pfeifer and Marie Posthumus founded Our Silent Voice as an anthology of poetry and micro-essays from writers across the country. It became clear that in writing our stories, our writers are on a journey to freedom from self-blame and stigma of assault.

Global and local contestations are not only gendered, they also raise important questions about agency and its practice and location in the twenty-first century. Silence and voice are being increasingly debated as sites of agency within feminist research on conflict and insecurity. Drawing on a wide range of feminist approaches, this volume examines the various ways that silence and voice have been contested in feminist research, and their impact on how agency is understood and performed, particularly in situations of conflict and insecurity. The collection makes an important and timely contribution to interdisciplinary feminist theorizing of silence, voice and agency in global politics. Interrogating the intellectual landscape of existing debates about agency, silence and voice in an increasingly unequal and conflict-ridden world, the contributors to this volume challenge the dominant narratives of agency based on voice or speech alone as a necessary precondition for understanding or negotiating agency or empowerment. Many of the authors have engaged in field research in both the Global South and North and bring in-depth and diverse gendered case studies to their analysis, focusing on the increasing importance of examining silence as well as voice for understanding gender and agency in an
