When Cindy Winters finally joins a hockey league she gets sidelined by the coach, until her Fairy Goaltender appears.

African American Political Thought offers an unprecedented philosophical history of thinkers from the African American community and African diaspora who have addressed the central issues of political life: democracy, race, violence, liberation, solidarity, and mass political action. Melvin L. Rogers and Jack Turner have brought together leading scholars to reflect on individual intellectuals from the past four centuries, developing their list with an expansive approach to political expression. The collected essays consider such figures as Martin Delany, Ida B. Wells, W. E. B. Du Bois, James Baldwin, Toni Morrison, and Audre Lorde, whose works are addressed by scholars such as Farah Jasmin Griffin, Robert Gooding-Williams, Michael Dawson, Nick Bromell, Neil Roberts, and Lawrie Balfour. While African American political thought is inextricable from the historical movement of American political thought, this volume stresses the individuality of Black thinkers, the transnational and diasporic consciousness, and how individual speakers and writers draw on various traditions simultaneously to broaden our conception of African American political ideas. This landmark volume gives us the opportunity to tap into the myriad and nuanced political theories central to Black life. In doing so, African American Political Thought: A Collected History transforms how we understand the past and future of political thinking in the West. Conscious nightmares in regard to the chaotic spinning of our world beyond our capacity to control. A hint of the world to come. Exposing the soft flesh of inquiry. This often hidden representation of the size and shape of the damage done by this absurd intellectual dialogue. We these disillusioned heirs to a world unaware that it is unaware. Lost in its certainty, its reflection now an illusion seen through the shattered mirror of its Madison Avenue concept of self. In search of manufactured meaning sought upon the alters of commerce. With the end of this absurd conversation in sight desperation presents itself in the scientific journals of our illusion. Fragmented glass scattered everywhere.

Indeed, we show that all recursive P-cylinders are P-bi-splinters. We observe that the converse does not hold. Relatedly, we study honest P-splinters and conclude that, in a certain sense, SAT is arbitrarily close to being an honest P-bi-splinter."

Patty in Paris By Carolyn Wells Excerpt e flames show marvellous rainbow tints. Patty never tired of watching the strange-coloured blaze, and delighted in throwing on more chips and splinters from time to time. "I can't see what makes your father so late," said Nan, as she wandered about the room, now adjusting some flowers in a vase, by this time, or earlier." "Something must have detained him," said Patty, rather absently, as she poked at a log with the tongs. "Patty, you're a true Sherlock Holmes! Your father is late, and you immediately deduce that something has detained him! Truly, you have a wonderful intellect!" We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our collection have been out of print for decades, and therefore have not been accessible to the general public. From the Man Booker Prize-nominated author of Sleeping on Jupiter and “one of India's greatest living authors” (O, The Oprah Magazine), a poignant and sweeping novel set in India during World War II and the present day about a son's quest to uncover the truth about his mother. In my childhood, I was known as the boy whose mother had a small?town India in those days, all white foreigners were largely thought of as British. So begins the “gracefully wrought” (Kirkus Reviews) story of Myshkin and his mother, Gayatri, who rebels against tradition to follow her artist’s instinct for freedom. Freedom of a different kind is in the air across India. The fight against British rule is in Germany. At this point of crisis, two strangers arrive in Gayatri’s town, opening up to her the vision of other possible lives. What took Myshkin’s mother from India and Dutch-held Bali in the 1930s, ripping a knife through his comfortingly familiar universe? Excavating the roots of the world in which he was abandoned, Myshkin comes to understand a war?orn universe overtaken by patriotism. Evocative and moving, “this mesmerizing exploration of the darker consequences of freedom, love, and loyalty is an astonishing display of Roy’s literary prowess” (Publishers Weekly).

Sunday O’Neil has made peace with all of her unhinged fences. She decides to move forward and leave her broken relationship behind her and start a “new beginning”. Sunday meets Dean Daniels who is kind and moreover, has no agenda except to make her happy. Sunday is reluctant to embrace another relationship, but somehow finds herself drawn to him. Dean was not the stereotypical type of man Sunday normally was attracted to. Aside from her personal relationship failures in the past, Sunday O’Neil flourishes as a savvy business professional who owns her own employer paid employment agency. She is a dynamic head hunter! Sunday finds herself being pursued by Reinhart Preston, president of P & P Solar Industries. He is a wealthy, ruthless, undeniably handsome business man and president of P & P Solar Industries. Mr. Preston is determined by any means necessary to become the number one wholesaler of solar panels in the United States. Mr. Preston’s proposal to Sunday O’Neil was monetarily overwhelming yet unrealistic, and had a threatening overtone if not accepted. A love hate business relationship is born. Unbeknownst to Sunday there are lies and deception on woven into Mr. Preston’s business proposal. Sunday O’Neil fi nds herself in a twisted world of business, erotic encounters, betrayal, lies and deception. Can Sunday O’Neil keep her head above water? -Beautifully written second instalment of Susan Bird’s “Fences” trilogy. I did not expect this turbulent ending. Thoroughly enjoyable. The book is a meditation on the ideas of the Ego, the Soul and the Higher Self and the differences between them. The narrator is a rather amorphous figure that can actually be anyone who has thought about these issues. There are no characters per sé, but as the novel evolves, night, darkness, the dreaming process, the mind, and thought become the main characters. The story is part of a very long, complex dream that the narrator seems to be going through as he makes his way to the realization that the Higher Self is the source of everything.

Think Cuba, you’re likely to think bearded revolutionaries in fatigues. Salsa. Sugar cane. Rock ‘n’ roll, zombies, drugs – anomie and angst – do not generally figure in our mental images of a country that’s assumed an outsized place in the American imagination. But fresh from the tropics, in Cuba in Splinters – a sparkling package of stories we’re assured are fictional – that’s exactly what you’ll find. Eleven writers largely unknown outside Cuba depict a world that veers from a hyperreal Havana in decay, against a backdrop of oblivious drug-toting German tourists, to a fantasy land – or is it? – where vigilant Cubans bar the door to zombies masquerading as health inspectors. Sex and knife-fights, stutterers and addicts, losers and lost literary classics: welcome to a raw and genuine island universe closed to casual visitors. “I took a dollar taxi. I must have fallen asleep right away next to the driver, nodding off against the seatbelt. The flight attendant was another giggling mulata who helped me with my buckle in a flash, right near the zipper of this countryless queer, right at that timeless time to close the doors and fly away from Cuba once and for all. To clear Cuba out of myself forever–another variation on a terrible outcome. The noise was deafening. How mysterious, how miraculous, how shitty.” –from “The Man, the Wolf and the New Woods”

Getting lost in the wrong time was bad enough. But things get far worse for Josh Gardner when he can't even find his way back to his own universe. When his ex-girlfriend, Lauren, starts having recurring nightmares about a strange alternate reality in which she was murdered, Josh becomes interested in proving the existence of other universes. Finding a focal point in the past from which thousands of new universes seem to stem, he travels back in time to find out how they were created. Unfortunately he ends up causing the very event that he went back to investigate. Cast adrift in the multiverse, he no longer has any control over where and when he will end up. With each jump sending him further and further back in time, he finds himself lurching from one alternate universe to another, some similar to his own, others drastically different. He has but one hope - to find an alter ego in another universe to help him find his way home. But in worlds ravaged by wars and diseases, in many cases it becomes a battle just to stay alive. Splinters in Time is the fourth novel in The Time Bubble series. The story continues in the fifth volume, Class of '92. A spin-off series, Second Chances, is also available. An adult, fantasy thriller, whose concept tells of how memories of the dead affect the lives of the living. It's about the faith of one man, Michael Jobson, and follows the life of Esther (the most beautiful girl in the world, inside and out) as she grows up in a world of conflicting values. Tuuli Jacobsson has always struggled with her identity in her seemingly all too normal life, but when her eyes start to glow on her eighteenth birthday, she realizes just how far beyond normal she really is. With her soul calling her to her true race and her mind clinging to her humanness, Tuuli finds herself torn between two races that are equally a part of her whole. In this journey of discovery and transformation, Tuuli must accept herself to win the battle to save her people before they are destroyed.

This book is about the absolute raw pain of surviving through life after childhood incest. The raw pain emotionally. The raw pain physiologically. The raw pain spiritually. The raw pain mentally. The raw pain physically. The raw pain sexually. The horrific damage done to one's entire soul. This book is about surviving in a sphere far beyond just walking this earth. This book is about the destruction done as a result of incest far beyond those physical moments of that touching. This book is about the carnage left behind long after those moments of incest were over; the touch was gone. This book was written not only for incest survivors but also for those who are living with raw pain from abuse of any kind. So survivors of all forms of abuse can tap into and embrace and validate their own life stories of abuse; each one's individual feelings of raw pain no matter where they came from. This book was written from a realm beyond a physical existence. This book is written to tell the world that incest and abuse of any kind, especially done to a child, is a lifelong sentence. Surviving after those moments of touch whether done once or a thousand times has the same impact. Those moments of violation alter one's life and life choices FOREVER! There is no such thing as living a life that remotely seems fair or just; nothing even close to "normal". The changes of a healthy, full life are stolen from you - TAKEN! It takes years to put the pieces together; to make sense of any of it. But only if you are fortunately enough to do so!

Charlie and Josh's interests were the same as most other teenagers: drinking, parties and girls. That was until the day they discovered the Time Bubble. It starts at a bit of fun, jumping a few seconds into the future. Soon things take a more serious turn as the leaps in time increase in duration. When a teenage girl goes missing, and the police become involved, suspicion falls on Charlie. How can he explain where she is? Will anyone believe him? As the long term dangers of the Bubble become clear, one man comes up with a solution - one that could hold the key to his own salvation. Set in a small market town in Southern England in the early 21st century, this light-hearted time travel novel has plenty to delight readers of all ages. This novel is the first part of a trilogy. Global Cooling, the second in the series, is now available.

SPLINTERS IN TIME -- "A Journey into a Long Distant Past" follows Part 1 -- "Future's Vision," of Volume III in the series Ba El Shebub's Gift Awakens. This series features the magical adventures of twelve-year-old Aarvid and his nine-year-old sister Mona. Together, they must deal with the fact that Ba El Shebub's Magic has chosen them to become its wielders, but first they must prove they are worthy of that choice. Part 2 -- IDOLS and GODS Transported by the Magic into times past, Aarvid and Mona, as well as their friend Tishba find themselves left to their own devices. Bereft of their use of the Magic, brother and sister must overcome powerful evil and in the process become agents of change. Their journey into the long distant past takes them back to circa 2060 BC; the time of the Magic's creation when Dark Magic threatened to destroy Ba El Shebub's Magic before it had been fully created. Next, their journey takes them into a time of great religious and political upheaval; a time when idols and numerous Gods ruled mobs whose pursuit of perverse pleasure and use of sacrifice took advantage of innocent children and powerless adults. Limited in their access to the Magic, they are left to depend on their own resourcefulness as they face dangerous and powerful foes. With the outcome in doubt and their fate apparently doomed, Aarvid and Mona, and Tishba continue to believe in each other and refuse to yield to overwhelming odds. As a result, they become perceived as the personification of agents of the One God -Abraham's God-; messengers whose coming had long been foretold. Part 3 - SEEDS for DESTRUCTION When the threesome finally arrive at Abraham's settlement, they become entangled into the conflict between brothers Ishmael and Isaac. Their final leg through this ancient time takes them to the city of Sodom where perversion reigns. With the use of the Magic no longer denied to them, Aarvid and Mona must fend off the perverse evil that confronts them; in the process the city of Sodom is destroyed. Part 4 -- OF SLAVES, SARACENS, and KNIGHTS The final leg of their journey through times past takes the threesome to the time of the Crusades during the 'Battle of Acre' to recover the Tome of Magic.

SPLINTERS IN TIME - "Future's Vision" During the height of the Mesopotamian Time, a powerful magic intended to save humankind from a disastrous future was created by a prescient Mage Ba El Shebub. Now, Ba's Magic creation has awakened because the time has come to forestall the impending self-destruction of mankind. The Magic's first act was to select two who would wield the powerful, yet deceptive Magic. The first two books in the series "Ba El Shebub's Gift Awakens" follows the exploits of the two Chosen Ones, eleven year-old Aarvid and his nine year-old sister, Mona. Ba El Shebub, the Mage, had meant to only share his vision of mankind's horrific future with the two youngsters. Apparently the Magic had a different design for the two apprentices. In a flash, the two youngsters disappeared. Ba instinctively knew what had happened. He was well aware that this was not the first time the Magic had manipulated events, nor would it be the last. However, this time the vision had been so cataclysmic Ba felt he must follow them and hope to protect the two unsuspecting youngsters from what awaited them in this calamitous future time. Thus, teleported into this "Future Vision" Aarvid and his sister Mona found themselves in a world that was alien to them. Fortunately, the Mage Ba El Shebub managed to join them. Together, the threesome set out on a tumultuous adventure where they were constantly pressed to rely on their courage and wits, as well as their abilities to wield the "Magic." Would they be able to find their way back before this "Future World" would come to its cataclysmic end?
