Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts (1) We have not used OCR(Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. (2) In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images, so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.

The progress of the work, increasing as it went on, was so largely helped by the cordial and ample co-operation of the many friends who have so generously assisted them, that they have, indeed, felt their courage amount with occasion. So much material has accumulated on their hands, that a point has been reached whereat it is necessary to make what was originally proposed to form two volumes into three it is hoped and believed that the importance of the subject will excuse this enforced variation from the original proposal., The work, indeed, has grown in interest as well as in importance as it has progressed, and with the alternative before them, either of abridging the articles under the late letters of the alphabet, thus disregarding the relative proportions of the plan of the work, or of issuing another volume, the decision arrived at cannot fail to be approved by all who desire to see such a prolonged, laborious, and useful enterprise as the compilation of a Bibliography of Printing carried out in its integrity. Accordingly, the present volume brings up the matter to the end of The remaining letters will run into a Third Volume, which may be had by all subscribers to the first two volumes at a proportionate rate of subscription. The range of subjects included has not been modificd, in the way of either expansion or contraction....

A Bibliography of the Analysis and Measurement of Human Personality Up to 1926

While the academic world devoted to literary study has been absorbed with new and distinct forms of literary criticism, bibliography has received scant attention--much less than in former times when it was understood as more than just an aid to research. Enormous changes have taken place in enumerative bibliography over the past thirty years, especially with the widespread u of computers, but these changes have gone unrecognized as bibliography has gone unappreciated. This work is a collection of essays concentrating exclusively on bibliography and its uses in the academic world, especially in literature, folklore, language, and linguistics. The book begins with a discussion of what bibliography is, what it does, and how to create the optimum bibliography. Other subjects include bibliography and postcolonialism, critical theory and bibliography in cross-disciplinary environments, issues and problems with tools for feminist and women's studies scholars in literature, strategies for the incorporation of pluridisciplinary work, bibliographical databases and databased bibliographies, and ideas for the future of the MLA International Bibliography.

This bibliography of reference works from Chinese, Japanese and Western language sources covers: the 1911 Revolution; the Republic of China (1912-1949); the People's Republic of China (1949 onwards); post-1911 Hong Kong and Macau; and post-1911 overseas Chinese. Filled with helpful checklists, charts, and suggestions for further reading, this practical, comprehensiv multidisciplinary guide takes readers through the entire case-writing process, including skills for writing both teaching cases and research cases. This edition includes new discussions of students as case writers, and how to interpret and respond to reviews, as well as updated and expanded material on video, multimedia and Internet cases.

Bibliography of printing. Volume 2

Excerpt from Oxford Books, Vol. 2: A Bibliography of Printed Works Relating to the University and City of Oxford or Printed or Published There With Appendixes, Annals, and Illustrations The Early Oxford Press, a bibliography by myself of printing and publishing at Oxford '1468' - 1640, was published in 1895, and confined itself entirely to books printed or published at Oxford. It was in fact a study of the earlier days of the greatest English press, rather than a view of the literature of Oxford. It was obvious that sooner or later a more interesting volume would suggest itself, which should add to the record of the Oxford Press a corresponding study of the books which concern Oxford, whether printed at Oxford or not. The present volume accordingly includes a bibliography of books about Oxford, wheresoever printed, and divides them theoretically into three classes: - books of primary importance, fully described; minor pieces, more summarily treated; and thirdly, a register of the Oxford Press. Pages 1-147 of this volume are therefore a supplement to Volume i, adding to that work an account of books about Oxford not printed at Oxford, and giving a long series of running numbers (1-963) by which each book can be quoted (if desired) as 'Oxford Books' or 'Madan' number so-and-so. The opportunity has been taken to incorporate corrections and additions and to add brief annals of Oxford history for each year from 1450 to 1640. At pp. 148-58 the year 1641 is treated in a way which was intended to be normal; that is to say, there are (1) Annals, (2) descriptions of primary books, (3) accounts of minor pieces, some of which were printed in London or Amsterdam, and (4) a full record of the Oxford Press for that year, (nos. 964-1003), in which every book mentioned in the preceding divisions has a short reference and number, if it was printed or published in Oxford. It would have been natural, of course, that the example of this year should have been carried out in the years following. Excerpt from A Bibliography of Printing, Vol. 1 The Compilers of this Bibliography of Printing, the first of its kind published in England, had been for some years engaged independently in the collection of materials for such a work as the present, when, by the good offices of Mr. Bernard Quaritch, of Piccadilly, they became personally acquainted and for the first time aware of their several labours and common intention, and thereupon agreed to combine their resources and pursue the task conjointly. It was arranged that the Bibliography should first appear, by monthly instalments, in the Printing Times and Lithographer; and then, after careful revision and correction (for which this serial mode of publication afforded special facilities), be eventually issued in a more complete and permanent form. In the year 1874 the "Typographical Bibliography" of Mr. John F. Marthens, of Pittsburgh, United States, was printed in the pages of the Quadrat. More than fifty specialists have contributed to this new edition of volume 1 of The Cambridge Bibliography of English Literature. The design of the original work has established itself so firmly as a workable solution to the immense problems of analysis, articulation and coordination that it has been retained in all its essentials for the new edition. The task of the new contributors has been to revise and integrate the lists of 1940 and 1957, to add materials of the following decade, to correct and refine the bibliographical details already available, and to re-shape the whole according to a new series of conventions devised to give greater clarity and consistency to the entries.

Following the tradition and style of the acclaimed Index Islamicus, the editors have created this new Bibliography of Art and Architecture in the Islamic World. The editors have surveyed and annotated a wide range of books and articles from collected volumes and journals published in all European languages (except Turkish) between 1906 and 2011. This comprehensive bibliography is an indispensable tool for everyone involved in the study of material culture in Muslim societies.
