of W. J. Hubbard, who possesses a duplicate copy of the statue of Washington, by Houdon. taken from life, and which he proposes should be placed in some suitable position in this city, respectfully Report: That the proposition of Mr. Hubbard, to dispose of a duplicate copy of the statue of Washington, taken from the original of Houdon, to this city, in order that, by such means and through the indorsement of this city of its resemblance to the great original, it might become the standard for the image of the Nation's Father, was received with much favor by your Committee. better choices, better jobs, loving romantic partners, more rewarding careers and decisions that are fully aligned with our aims. What stops us from getting all that is the complexity of our brain and the complicated way in which the external world comes together. The misalignment between the internal states we experience and the external circumstances we encounter often leads to confusion, a lack of clarity in our thinking and actions that are not consistent with our professed values. Intentional is a gameplan. It helps us connect the pieces of our mind to the pieces of our life. It shows us how to map what we feel to what has caused those feelings. It helps us understand what affects us and what effects it has on us. It makes it possible for us to determine what we want, why we want it and what we need to do to get it. When we know what to do, we know how to behave. When we know how to behave we know how to act. When we know how to act, we know how to live. Our actions, each day, become our lives. Drawn from the latest research from the fields of neuroscience, behavioral and social psychology and evolutionary anthropology, Intentional shows how to add meaning to our actions and lead a meaningful, happier, more fulfilling life on our terms.
