And much, much more.

The fourth edition of Advertising brings together an author team of highly experienced teachers and industry professionals to produce a learning resource that is both pedagogically sound and reflective of the most current industry practices. This new edition is fully revised to reflect the rapidly evolving advertising industry by beginning from the premise that everything is digital. To introduce students to the power of digital marketing, this edition contains two new chapters on Search and Analytics, which underpin all modern communication systems. A third new chapter on Integration and Synergy demonstrates how these tools can be brought together to form a measurable, customer-focused IMC plan.

The integrated marketing communications perspective, (the theme of the text), catapults the reader into the business practices of the 21st century.

Advertising and Promotion: An Integrated Marketing Communications Perspective, 6/e, by Belch and Belch, is the number one text in the Advertising market. As the field of advertising and promotion continues to dramatically change since the dominant days of high-powered Madison Avenue agencies, marketers must look beyond traditional media in order to achieve success. In order to best communicate with consumers, advertisers must utilize a myriad of tools (advertising, public relations, direct marketing, interactive/Internet marketing, sales promotion, and personal selling); Belch/Belch is the first book to reflect the shift from the conventional methods of advertising to the more widely recognized approach of implementing an integrated marketing communications strategy. The text underscores the importance of recognizing that a firm must use all promotional tools available to convey a unified message to the consumer. The integrated marketing communications perspective, (the theme of the text), catapults the reader into the business practices of the 21st century. AdSim is an Advertising Simulation set in the consumer electronics industry where students are required to make decisions about Agency selection; Brand positioning and messages; Media Selection, including traditional and non-traditional; Market Research, both ordering and interpreting; and Budgeting. This simulation, created by SmartSims, provides a highly engaging means of developing a real understanding and appreciation of the fundamentals and dynamics of communications, advertising and promotion in business. AdSim challenges students to apply recently learned concepts, principles and explained practices in development of overall communications, advertising and promotion campaigns, whether against the computer in the Single-Player version or in direct competition with their peers in the Multi-Player version. AdSim for Belch is a learning companion to Advertising and Promotion: An Integrated Marketing Communications Perspective, 6/e by George and Micheal Belch and has been modeled on the contemporary US DVD-Player Market. Using this simulation, students will develop:

- An understanding of the factors involved in the development of an advertising and promotion in a highly competitive market.
- Insights into selecting different media for specific communications goals and target markets while being constrained by a fixed budget.
- Insights into the importance market and media research.
- Insights into the influence of brand awareness and on-going measurement.
- A better appreciation of the concepts of an integrated marketing communication approach.
- Critical decision-making and team participation skills in an interactive learning environment.

Shortlisted for the 2009 Australian Educational Publishing Awards. The whole is great than the sum of the parts: this is the most basic premise of integrated marketing communication (IMC). Synergies can be generated if marketing communication is considered as a whole rather than planning advertising, public relations or promotion in isolation. This title takes this approach and can truly make the claim to be the first genuinely IMC text. Responding to market demands, this title has been comprehensively re-organised into 4 parts (16 chapters) to suit Australia/New Zealand one-semester courses. Part 1 puts marketing communication into an Australia and New Zealand context. Armed with the context, students are given an overview of the communication process and basic theories and models in Part 2. In Part 3 students can begin to plan strategy with confidence and decide on tactics. By Part 4, students are able to integrate strategies and look at a number of different communication disciplines - direct and interactive, public relations and sponsorship, sales promotion and personal selling. The field of advertising and promotion continues to dramatically change since the dominant days of high-powered Madison Avenue agencies. Marketers must look beyond traditional media in order to achieve success. In order to best communicate with consumers, advertisers must utilize the myriad of media outlets—print, radio, cable, satellite TV, and now the Internet. Belch/Belch is the first book to reflect the shift from the conventional methods of advertising to the more widely recognized approach of implementing an integrated marketing communications strategy. Belch/Belch conveys throughout the text that one must recognize how a firm uses all of the promotional tools available to convey a unified message to the consumer. The integrated marketing communications perspective, or theme of the text, catapults the reader into the business practices of the 21st century. . . .

This book reviews, updates and enhances the basic concepts surrounding the academic theory and practice of Integrated Marketing Communication (IMC). Since the introduction of IMC in the late 1980s, the concept has spread around the world. In that expansion, many authors have written about IMC; practitioners have adopted and adapted the concept to fit their own market situations. Further, dramatic changes have occurred in the technologies used in marketing communications which consumers have accepted and employed in their consumption of marketers' messages and incentives. Thus, there have been dramatic changes in how IMC was initially envisioned and how it has developed over time. This book identifies and discusses these changes, how they have occurred and what they mean going forward for all types of marketers around the world. Thus, IMC, and indeed integration of communications at all organisational levels is an essential in the 21st century organisations. This book was published as a special issue of the Journal of Marketing Communications.
