Conscious And Subconscious Mind A Path To Wisdom

Sub Consciousness is a state within oneself which is always active and aware of your surrounding, always on the lookout for potential danger. Firstly, let us talk about the conscious mind and subconscious mind in simple terms. Every action you do after thinking about it in your head or to simply put it if you know what you are doing / if you feel you're in control of your actions it's the work of your conscious mind. The contrast of the previous actions; the actions for which you're not in control of or the actions that happen in an instant without you knowing how you did that is the work of your sub-conscious mind. Each and every individual has both conscious as well as sub-conscious mind working at the same time. Harnessing the power of Sub-consciousness is no walk in the park for anyone. Only through proper and regular training, you will be able to understand what your sub-consciousness is.

Understanding what your sub-consciousness is one thing, harnessing its powers are totally a different and tedious process. Now, before we go through the topic of sub-consciousness you need to know what you and I are made up of. We all are a combination of the elements such as fire, air, water, earth and the mysterious life energy. All of these crucial elements

Excerpt: Unlimited Possibilities The mind of man is conscious and subconscious, objective and subjective, external and internal. The conscious mind acts, the subconscious reacts; the conscious mind produces the impression, the subconscious produces the expression; the conscious mind determines what is to be done, the subconscious supplies the mental material and the necessary power. The subconscious mind is the great within - an inner mental world from which all things proceed that appear in the being of man. The conscious mind is the mind of action, the subconscious mind is the mind of reaction, but every subconscious reaction is invariably the direct result of a corresponding conscious action. Every conscious action produces an impression upon the subconscious and every subconscious reaction produces an expression in the personality. Everything that is expressed through the personality was first impressed upon the subconscious, and since the conscious mind may impress anything upon the subconscious, any desired expression may be secured, because the subconscious will invariably do what it is directed and impressed to do. The subconscious mind is a rich mental field; every conscious impression is a seed sown in this field, and will bear fruit after its kind, be the seed good or otherwise. All thoughts of conviction and all deeply felt desires will impress themselves upon the subconscious and will reproduce their kind, to be later expressed in the personal being of man. Every desire for power, ability, wisdom, harmony, joy, health, purity, life, greatness, will impress itself upon the subconscious, and will cause the thing desired to be produced in the great within, the quality and the quantity depending upon the depth of the desire and the conscious realization of the true idea conveyed by the desire. invariably come forth into expression in the personality; therefore, by knowing how to impress the subconscious, man may give his personal self any quality desired, and in any quantity desired. Personal power, physical health, mental brilliancy, remarkable ability, extraordinary talent, rare genius - these are attainments that the subconscious of every mind can readily produce and bring forth when properly directed and impressed. The subconscious mind obeys absolutely the desires of the conscious mind, and since the subconscious is limitless, it can do for man whatever he may desire to have done. What man may desire to become, that he can become, and the art of statement about evidence for the unconscious, and how it works, as well as major essays on all the fundamentals of mental functioning. Freud explores how we are torn between the pleasure principle and the reality principle, how we often find ways both to express and to deny what we most fear, and why certain men need fetishes for their sexual satisfaction. His study of our most basic drives, and how they are transformed, brilliantly illuminates the nature of sadism, masochism, exhibitionism and voyeurism.

subconscious mind. In simple terms, while we may seem to be consciously in control of our thoughts and actions, the truth is that our conscious mind is hardly even aware of what's happening, as the subconscious mind runs the show! We (our conscious self) are like puppets that our subconscious mind controls whether we are awake or asleep! Here an interesting fact; when you let your subconscious mind operate with no semblance of conscious control of what it concentrates on and makes habitual, the probability of your life being desirable (to you and others) is slim. When your subconscious mind rules you, you operate on impulse, which translates to lack of self-discipline, chronic procrastination, low productivity, you having bad habits, you

Weaving together state-of-the-art research, theory, and clinical insights, this book provides a new understanding of the unconscious and its centrality in human functioning.

The authors review heuristics, implicit memory, implicit learning, attribution theory, implicit motivation, automaticity, affective versus cognitive salience, embodied cognition, and clinical theories of unconscious functioning. They integrate this work with cognitive neuroscience views of the mind to create an empirically supported model of the

The Unconscious

In psychology, the subconscious is the part of the mind that is not currently in focal awareness. Sigmund Freud used the term "subconscious" in 1893 to describe associations and impulses that are not accessible to consciousness. He later abandoned the term in favor of unconscious, noting the following: "If someone talks of subconsciousness, I cannot tell whether he means the term topographically - to indicate something lying in the mind beneath consciousness - or qualitatively - to indicate another consciousness, a subterranean one, as it were. He is probably not clear about any of it. The only trustworthy antithesis is between conscious and unconscious." In 1896, in Letter 52, Freud introduced the stratification of mental processes, noting that memory-traces are occasionally re-arranged in accordance with new circumstances. In this theory, he differentiated between Wahrnehmungszeichen ("Indication of perception"), Unbewusstsein ("the unconscious") and Vorbewusstsein ("the Preconscious"). From this point forward, Freud no longer used the term "subconscious" because, in his opinion, it failed to differentiate whether content and the processing occurred in the unconscious or preconscious mind. An examination of the ways in which the unconscious mind shapes everyday life a diverse spectrum of strange thoughts and behaviors. When observed from the outside, these phenomena are often written off as being just “crazy,” but what if they were actually planned and logical? NeuroLogic explores the brain’s internal system of reasoning, from its unconscious depths to conscious decision making, and illuminates how it explains our most outlandish as well as our most stereotyped behaviors. From sleepwalking murderers, contagious yawning, and the brains of sports fans to false memories, subliminal messages, and the secret of ticklishness, Dr. Eliezer Sternberg
