

Lewis "Shoe" Blake is used to the joys and difficulties of life on the Tuscarora Indian reservation in 1975: the joking, the Fireball games, the snow blowing through his roof. What he's not used to is white people being nice to him -- people like George Haddonfield, whose family recently moved to town with the Air Force. As the boys connect through their mutual passion for music, especially the Beatles, Lewis has to lie more and more to hide the reality of his family's poverty from George. He also has to deal with the vicious Evan Reininger, who makes Lewis the special target of his wrath. But when everyone else is on Evan's side, how can he be defeated? And if George finds out the truth about Lewis's home -- will he still be his friend? Acclaimed adult author Eric Gansworth makes his YA debut with this wry and powerful novel about friendship, memory, and the joy of rock 'n' roll.

Lessons in the good, bad and unpredictable behaviour of global finance
How Your Brain Gets Tricked by Optical Illusions, Magicians, Hoaxes & More
How to Believe in a Secular Age

Tell Me Lies
A Sceptic's Handbook

Why Butter, Meat and Cheese Belong in a Healthy Diet

A fully packed, rural country school. With good teachers and students and a wonderful Principal. This new principal got the students involved in many activities. All the parents were happy to have such an active principal at the school. The parents also admired his appearance and mannerisms: a tall black man well put together. One never knew what color gabardine pants he would be wearing the next day. But it was amazing and surprising when they learned about his deep, intimate friendship with one special female student.

The 48 Laws Of Power

A Philosophy of Common Sense

A Graphic Guide to Fake News

A Citizen's Guide to News and Information in the Digital Age

A Memoir

Don't Be Fooled by the Principal

A Poem's Reach Around the World