The Committee warns of a major public reaction against radio digital switchover, scheduled for 2015, unless the Government make the case for switchover and keep the public informed about its impact. There is 'public confusion and industry uncertainty' over radio switchover and concern that due to the lack of public information people are still buying analogue radios which will be out of date in a few years time. Retailers gave evidence stating that they are not getting adequate information on switchover plans so are unable to offer consumers accurate guidance when making purchases. The report also points out that car manufacturers are still fitting analogue radios in new cars and digital radios will not be fitted as standard in all cars until 2013. The radio switchover is contrasted with the television switchover programme, finding that the benefits of TV switchover were well understood, in contrast surveys show that the public are generally happy with the present FM radio system and with the range of programmes that are provided. The Committee recommends urgent steps on a range of actions including: providing a detailed plan for universal digital radio coverage including how it is to be funded; developing a policy for the long term use of FM; devising a help scheme for radio switchover financed by general taxation rather than the BBC licence fee; ensuring new digital car radios are fitted with a multi-standard chip to enable their use overseas; encouraging radio manufacturers and retailers to devise a sensible scrappage scheme for redundant analogue radios. It is also noted that the BBC and Government disagree over whether the cost of universal digital coverage of their national stations can be met under the current licence fee. The report says that it is essential that a 'firm and unambiguous' plan for funding the completion of build-out of the digital radio service is put in place as soon as possible. The report concludes reversing current policy would be unproductive given the amount of investment in digital radio already and while the switchover in 2015 is ambitious a change of target date is not favoured at this stage.

Climate change is the greatest challenge facing humanity: drastic reduction of carbon emissions is vital if we are to avoid a catastrophe that devastates large parts of the world. Governments and businesses have been slow to act and individuals now need to take the lead. The Earth can absorb no more than 3 tonnes of carbon dioxide emissions each year for every person on the planet if we are to keep temperature and rainfall change within tolerable limits. Yet from cars and holiday flights to household appliances and the food on our plates, Western consumer lifestyles leave each of us responsible for over 12 tonnes of carbon dioxide a year - four times what the Earth can handle. Individual action is essential if we want to avoid climate chaos. How to Live a Low-Carbon Life shows how easy it is to take responsibility, providing the first comprehensive, one-stop reference guide to calculating your CO2 emissions and reducing them to a sustainable 3 tonnes a year.

Fernsehen und Internet sind heutzutage nicht mehr aus dem privaten und dem geschäftlichen Alltag der Menschen wegzudenken. Dabei schreiten die technischen Grundlagen in den Bereichen der Datenübertragung und der Gerätetechnologie stets voran. Jährlich werden international die neuesten Techniken und Produkte auf den verschiedensten Ausstellungen der Länder vorgestellt. Vor allem der internationale Prozess der Digitalisierung sowie die schnelle Verbreitung des World Wide Web bilden dabei wichtige Grundlagen für bisherige und zukünftige Entwicklungen neuer technischer Standards. Mit der fortschreitenden, weltweiten Entwicklung geht ebenfalls eine Tendenz zur Medienkonvergenz, das bedeutet das Zusammenwachsen zweier Medienangebote zu einem Endgerät beziehungsweise einer technologischen Plattform, einher.

Beispielhaft hierfür stehen die so genannten Smartphones – Mobiltelefone, die zahlreiche Anwendungen wie Telefonie, Fotografie und Internet in sich vereinen. Das Fernsehen und das Internet unterliegen ebenfalls zunehmend diesem Konvergenztrend. Waren Fernsehinhalte bisher über den Computer im Internet konsumierbar, lässt sich nun eine neue Entwicklung erkennen. Die daraus folgende Konvergenz nennt sich „Hybrid-Fernsehen“ oder „Connected TV“ und beschreibt ebenfalls die Verschmelzung von Internet und Fernsehen in einem Endgerät. In diesem Fall ist dieses Endgerät jedoch nicht der Computer sondern der Fernsehbildschirm. Hybrid-Fernsehen bezeichnet dabei einen Trend, der international zu beobachten ist. Auf Basis neuer technischer Entwicklungen des letzten Jahrzehnts, können verschiedene Internetinhalte nunmehr über das Fernsehgerät konsumiert werden. Dabei ist die Entwicklung dieses Trends nicht in jedem Land gleich.

Inhaltenanbieter und hybride Fernsehangebote müssen sowohl im jeweiligen nationalen als auch im internationalen Rahmen betrachtet werden, um die Entwicklung von Hybrid-Fernsehen adäquat analysieren zu können. Die vorliegende Arbeit beschäftigt sich mit dieser Genese. Dabei werden die Entwicklung von Hybrid-Fernsehen in Deutschland, den USA, Großbritannien und Australien näher betrachtet und anschließend auf Grundlage dieser Entwicklungsbeschreibungen miteinander verglichen. Dadurch soll herausgefunden werden, inwiefern Unterschiede, aber auch Gemeinsamkeiten zwischen den einzelnen nationalen Entwicklungen von Hybrid-Fernsehen bestehen. Innerhalb dieses Vergleichs spielen neben den Entwicklungen auch die Erlösmodelle eine wesentliche Rolle. [...]

Established in 2004, Maori Television has had a major impact on the New Zealand broadcasting landscape. But over the past year or so, the politics of Maori Television have been brought to the foreground of public consciousness, with other media outlets tracking Maori Television's search for a new CEO, allegations of editorial intervention and arguments over news reporting approaches to Te Kohanga Reo National Trust. Based on a Marsden Grant and three years of interviews with key stakeholders &- staff, the Board, other media, politicians, funders and viewers &- this is a deep account of Maori Television in its first ten years. Jo Smith argues that today's arguments must be understood within a broader context shaped by non-Maori interests. Can a Maori broadcaster follow both tikanga and the Broadcasting Standards Authority? Is it simply telling the news in Maori, or broadcasting the news with a Maori perspective? How can it support te reo Maori at the same time as appeal to all New Zealand? How does it function as the voice of its Maori stakeholders? Offering five frameworks to address the challenges of a Maori organisation working within a wider non-Maori context, this is a solidly researched examination of Maori Television's unique contribution to the media cultures of Aotearoa New Zealand.
