The Legend of the Outlaw Biker

I Married the Doctor Who Fixes Things Down There

The numbers are staggering, and nobody wants to talk about it. We are not talking about your money or being broke. It's bigger than that! More than half the men in this country are affected at some point in their lives by erectile dysfunction. Too many men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer or have difficulty trying to pee. You can add Viagra, Cialis, and penile implants to the conversation and now it just got better! This new frontier approach known as men's health is the new best practice for getting your sex life back on track. Women are not far behind with persistent problems being sexually aroused, achieving orgasm or dealing with vagina issues such as pain during sex. Hormone cures and keto diets seem to be the new fitness approach, while integrating mindfulness and Kegel exercises. The reality of pelvic pain is real and there are solutions to improving pelvic health. Mixing meditation, awareness, emotions, and sex is a new frontier to solving the mystery behind lack of desire. The approaches available today are right up there with paleo diets, apple cider vinegar, and the truth about wheat, carbs and sugar and what they can do to the human body. It matters what you eat and drink and the kind of doctor you seek out when your plumbing breaks down and you start to leak. It doesn't hurt to continue with the affirmations or a purpose driven life, while trying to practice tapping on steroids. Your personal journey towards finding plumbing solutions for incontinence for both men and women are more than a mindset or willpower instinct. Who knew the joy of being able to pee on command? You no longer to live in fear of leaking out in public because your pelvic floor and bladder failed you. Urology issues will make you laugh and cry at the same time. But, don't do that or you might leak! Although this is no laughing matter, urology and your plumbing is the most entertaining conversation you will have with your closest friends. Throw in this book and you will laugh out loud, while at the same time getting the answers to how things down there get fixed. The Dick Doctor's wife shares the secrets inside everyone's pants to help you find the answers to get your plumbing in good working order. In the end, we are all connected on the inside by our plumbing and all that goes with it. This reality with our human plumbing and the connection it has to our mind and body should give us all a healthy perspective on humanity. Urology is a basic reminder to work harder at being kind to everyone, no matter how different we think we may be. Urological struggles are an equalizer for the human race. The author has been married to her reconstructive urologist husband, "The Penis Doctor" for almost 20 years. He has one of the busiest medical practices in town that has helped her to easily create a "Top 10 Type" list of the most prevalent urological problems for both men and women. As the Penis Doctor's wife, the author translates medical urological situations in a sensitive and humorous way. This book is gentle enough for every man to read, funny enough for every woman to enjoy, and educational enough to give a copy to everyone you know. The Penis Doctor's wife makes it safe and accepting to talk about all things urological and encourages you to embrace your plumbing. Harley-Davidson sets the standard for making great motorcycles--and showing people how to enjoy them. Here's its story.

Millions of loyal Harley fans can't be wrong. With their distinctive styling and sound, Harley-Davidson motorcycles have won the hearts of people--from all walks of life and from all over the world. "Harley-Davidson: The Good, the Bad, and the Legendary" captures just what it is about Harleys that make them so popular. This anthology is a tribute not only to this legendary piece of machinery, but also to the stories, history, and lifestyle behind its rise as the world's most popular bike. If you're still in awe of that first Harley, still riding and wrenching on Harleys, or still dreaming Harleys, then this book is for you.

From the editor-in-chief of Easyriders magazine, One Percenter presents an unprecedented social analysis of American outlaw biker culture. A longtime biker and self-proclaimed nonconformist, Dave Nichols is not a subtle man. "Bikers are the last wolves in a land of sheep," he affirms—but the motivations of today's biking culture stretch far back into the annals of human history. One Percenter: The Legend of the Outlaw Biker illuminates the origins of rebel mentality, which began far outside of cycling: with groups from the Mongols and Huns to the Vikings, from pirates to the gunslingers of the Old West. In his signature no-nonsense style, Nichols traces his own defiant mindset from ancient times all the way into the modern era, where this one-percenter perspective is best embodied by outlaw bikers. As biographical as it is insightful, One Percenter also touches on the iconic Harley-Davidson motorcycle, gives a brief history of Easyriders magazine, and unapologetically criticizes the U.S. media for what Nichols views as a biased, unfairly negative portrayal of motorcycle clubs. Complete with an exclusive collection of photographs taken by Kim Peterson, editor of In The Wind magazine, this book offers a fascinating and analytical discussion of the rebel ethos that has become a staple of American popular culture.

The technology underground is a thriving, humming, and often literally scintillating subculture of amateur inventors and scientific envelope-pushers who dream up, design, and build machines that whoosh, rumble, fly—and occasionally hurl pumpkins across enormous distances. In the process they astonish us with what is possible when human imagination and ingenuity meet nature's forces and materials. William Gurstelle spent two years exploring the most fascinating outposts of this world of wonders: meeting and talking to the men and women who care far more for the laws of physics than they do for mundane matters like government regulations and their own personal safety. Adventures from the Technology Underground is Gurstelle's lively and weirdly compelling report of his travels. In these pages we meet Frank Kosdon and others who draw the scrutiny of the FAA, ATF, and other federal agencies in their pursuit of high-power amateur rocketry, which they demonstrate to impressive—and sometimes explosive—effect at the annual LDRS gathering held in various remote and unpopulated areas (a necessary consideration since that acronym stands for Large Dangerous Rocket Ships). Here also are the underground technologists who turn up at the Burning Man festival in the Nevada high desert, including Lucy Hosking, "the engineer from Hell" and the creator of Satan's Calliope, aka the World's Loudest Thing, a pipe organ made from jet engines. Also at Burning Man is Austin "Dr. MegaVolt" Richard, who braves the arcing, sputtering, six-digit voltages of a giant Tesla coil in his protective metal suit. Add in a trip to see medieval-style catapults, air cannons, and supersized slingshots in action at the World Championship Punkin Chunkin competition in Sussex County, Delaware, and forays to the postapocalyptic enclaves of the flamethrower builders and the future-noir pits of the fighting robots, and you have proof positive that the age of invention is still going strong. In the world of science and engineering, despite its buttoned-down image, there's plenty of fun, humor, and sheer wonder to be found at the fringes. Adventures from the Technology Underground takes you there. • Launch homemade high-power rockets. • Catapult pumpkins the better part of a mile. • Watch robot gladiators saw, flip, and pound one another into high-tech junk heaps. • Dazzle the eye with electrical discharges measured in the hundreds of thousands of volts. • Play with flamethrowers, potato guns, and other decidedly unsafe toys . . . If this is your idea of fun, you'll have a major good time on this wild ride through today's Technology Underground. From the Burning Man festival in Nevada's high desert to the latest gathering of Large Dangerous Rocket Ship builders to Delaware's annual Punkin Chunkin competition (a celebration of "science, radical self-expression, and beer"), you'll meet the inspired, government-unregulated, and corporately unfettered men and women who operate at the furthest fringes of science, engineering, and wild-eyed arc welding, building the catapults, ultra-high-voltage electrical devices, incendiary artworks, fighting robots, and other machines that demonstrate what's possible when physics meets human ingenuity.
