

Il Vecchio E Il Mare Flitby

A diary written during a COVID-related lockdown where a 50-year-old single parent lives a quarantine in a quarantine shedding light on the parallelism between the virus and the affective contagion that develops each time she encounters the other. The end of a relationship with a man defined "absolute king of the kingdom of Absence and the incarnation of Eros", will lead her to interface with the contradictions of living relationships between two opposite needs: attachment and distance. In this journey of investigation back in time, of traveling in a kaleidoscopic female reality, of searching for a sense of impermanence through literature and poetry, the countermelody to the protagonist will be given by her teenage daughter, a little hacker wiser than her, Beth and Gioia, her lifelong friends, different yet complementary, Cousin G., romantic serial accumulator and Marce, the dog guy, a former boyfriend. Against the background of current events and urgent issues (from femicide to the environment), text messages, dating apps and the Greece of here origins with the power of myth come into play and will lead to healing through the acceptance of inconsistency and complexity. "Rendered in striking, explosive graphic form, many of Bob Dylan's most famous songs illustrated as they've never been before.

Spanning a thirty-eight-year period, from Hemingway's first poem published when he was twelve to private verses sent to Mary V. Hemingway in 1950, these lyrics, parodies, and satires touch on themes that range from war and love to contemporary literature.

Una rilettura accurata ed esauriente di tutta la produzione musicale di Roberto Vecchioni, dagli esordi fino all'ultimo album "L'infinito", pubblicato nell'autunno 2018. Il cantautore milanese nei suoi cinquant'anni di attività artistica ha ripercorso con profondità e lucidità i temi fondamentali dell'esistenza, dall'amore all'amicizia, dalla riflessione esistenziale e religiosa alla polemica culturale e politica. L'analisi attenta di Jachia fa emergere con forza il vastissimo reticolo artistico e letterario che innerva i testi di Vecchioni – con citazioni esplicite o allusive di miti, leggende, film, romanzi, poesie – e la profonda ricerca spirituale che li caratterizza.

*Book of the Month Club selection, and made Hemingway a celebrity. Published in book form on September 1, 1952, the first edition print run was 50,000 copies. The illustrated edition featured black and white illustrations by Charles Tunnicliffe and Raymond Sheppard. The novel received the Pulitzer Prize in May 1953, and was specifically cited when Hemingway was awarded the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1954. The success of The Old Man and the Sea made Hemingway an international celebrity. The Old Man and the Sea is taught at schools around the world and continues to earn foreign royalties. The Old Man and the Sea served to reinvigorate Hemingway's literary reputation and prompted a reexamination of his entire body of his work. The novel was initially received with much popularity and it restored many readers' confidence in Hemingway's capability as an author. Its publisher, Scribner's, called the novel a "new classic," and many critics favorably compared it with such works as William Faulkner's "The Bear" and Herman Melville's "Moby-Dick". Ernest Hemingway was born in Oak Park, Illinois, in 1899, and began his writing career for The Kansas City Star in 1917. During the First World War he volunteered as an ambulance driver on the Italian front but was invalided home, having been seriously wounded while serving with the infantry. In 1921 Hemingway settled in Paris, where he became part of the American expatriate circle of Gertrude Stein, F Scott Fitzgerald, Ezra Pound, and Ford Maddox Ford. His first book, Three Stories and Ten Poems, was published in Paris in 1923 and was followed by the* short story selection In Our Time, which marked his American debut in 1925. With the appearance of The Sun Also Rises in 1926, Hemingway became not only the voice of the "lost generation" but the preeminent writer of his time. This was followed by Men Without Women in 1927, when Hemingway returned to the United States, and his novel of the Italian front, A Farewell to Arms (1929). In the 1930s, Hemingway settled in Key West, and later in Cuba, but he traveled widely-to Spain, Florida, Italy and Africa-and wrote about his experiences in Death in the Afternoon (1932), his classic treatise on bullfighting, and Green Hills of Africa (1935), an account of big-game hunting in Africa. Later he reported on the Spanish Civil War, which became the background for his brilliant war novel, For Whom the Bell Tolls (1939), hunted U-boats in the Caribbean, and covered the European front during the Second World War. Hemingway's most popular work, The Old Man and the Sea, was awarded the Pulitzer Prize in 1953, and in 1954 Hemingway won the Nobel Prize in Literature "for his powerful, style-forming mastery of the art of narration." One of the most important influences on the development of the short story and novel in American fiction, Hemingway has seized the imagination of the American public like no other twentieth-century author. He died, by suicide, in Ketchum, Idaho, in 1961. His other works include The Torrents of Spring (1926), Winner Take Nothing (1933), To Have and Have Not (1937), The Fifth Column and the First Forty-Nine Stories (1938), Across The River and Into the Trees (1950), and posthumously A “Juan, il mare, il cricket e il sogno di Sebastian” è un libro per tutti, volto ad una sensibilizzazione ecologica, partendo dal “riciclo” di potenzialità inaspettate, talvolta dimenticate. Valorizzando “risorse” ignorate come tali. Il mare, metafora di vita, rischia di essere inquinato da una modernità eccessiva, dai cambiamenti socio-economici, dall'indifferenza generalizzata, che spezzano gli equilibri “in” e “attorno” ad esso. L'umanità stessa è esposta ad un processo di “desertificazione” sia individuale che collettiva, se priva di una “scientifica” consapevolezza. Riusciranno la saggezza del vecchio Juan, il cricket praticato da alcuni immigrati, la letteratura “scoperta” dal giovane Sebastian e un'avventura nell'oceano contro i narcotrafficanti, ad indicare rotte “ecologicamente” sostenibili? Francesco Biacchi, classe 1962 è laureato in pedagogia. Ha pubblicato con Albatros Il Filo S.r.l., “Mario” e “Il folletto dispettoso” conseguendo nel 2014 una “Segnalazione di merito” al Concorso Letterario Internazionale “C'era una volta” dell'Associazione Amici dell'Umbria-Agostino Pensa”, nel 2015 un “Diploma d'onore per la Favolistica” al Premio Letterario Internazionale “Il Molinello”.

From one of the best writers in American literature, a classic novel about smuggling, intrigue, and love. To Have and Have Not is the dramatic story of Harry Morgan, an honest man who is forced into running contraband between Cuba and Key West as a means of keeping his crumbling family financially afloat. His adventures lead him into the world of the wealthy and dissipated yachtsmen who throng the region and involve him in a strange and unlikely love affair. In this harshly realistic, yet oddly tender and wise novel, Hemingway perceptively delineates the personal struggles of both the "haves" and the "have nots" and creates one of the most subtle and moving portraits of a love affair in his oeuvre. By turns funny and tragic, lively and poetic, remarkable in its emotional impact, To Have and Have Not is literary high adventure at its finest.

A Novel

In a fusion of fact and fiction, nineteenth-century women institutionalized as hysterics reveal what history ignored "City of Incurable Women is a brilliant exploration of the type of female bodily and psychic pain once commonly diagnosed as hysteria—and the curiously hysterical response to it commonly exhibited by medical men. It is a novel of powerful originality, riveting historical interest, and haunting lyrical beauty." —Sigrid Nunez, author of The Friend and What Are You Going Through "Where are the hysterics, those magnificent women of former times?" wrote Jacques Lacan. Long history's ghosts, marginalized and dispossessed due to their gender and class, they are reimagined by Maud Casey as complex, flesh-and-blood people with stories to tell. These linked, evocative prose portraits, accompanied by period photographs and medical documents both authentic and invented, poignantly restore the humanity to the nineteenth-century female psychiatric patients confined in Paris's Salpêtrière hospital and reduced to specimens for study by the celebrated neurologist Jean-Martin Charcot and his male colleagues. Maud Casey is the author of five books of fiction, including The Man Who Walked Away, and a work of nonfiction, The Art of Mystery: The Search for Questions. A Guggenheim Fellow and recipient of the St. Francis College Literary Prize, she teaches at the University of Maryland. When Life in Peacetime opens, on May 29, 2015, engineer Ivo Brandani is sixty-nine years old. He's disillusioned and angry--but morbidly attached to life. As he makes a day-long trip home from his job in Sharm el Sheik reconstructing the coral reefs of the Red Sea using synthetics, he reflects on both the brief time he sees remaining ahead and on everything that has happened already in his life to which he can never quite resign himself. We see his slow bureaucratic trudge as a civil servant, long summer vacations on a Greek island, his twisted relationship with his first boss, the turmoil and panic attacks he faced during the student uprisings in 1968 that pushed him away from philosophy and into engineering, and his fearful childhood as a postwar evacuee. A close-up portrait of an ordinary existence, Life in Peacetime offers a new look at the postwar era in Italy and the fundamental contradictions of a secure, middle-class life.
