Acclaimed as one of the greatest novels of the last century, Vikram Seth's A Suitable Boy remains, twenty years after publication, one of the most entrancing and spellbinding works of fiction yet written. A love story as well as the tale of a country awakening from long years of colonial rule, it tells of Lata, and of her mother's exacting attempts to find her the perfect husband. It also recounts India's troubles shaping its own destiny as the country marches towards its first great General Election. It is a story that readers the world over can neither put down nor ever forget. 'Fiction on a grand scale. By the time you reach the last page you will have absorbed a splendid story, full of the tangle and perfume of India.' Sunday Telegraph 'Vivid, evocative and beautifully written.' Literary Review 'No one, surely, could wish this novel shorter. The greatness of the novel, its unassailable truthfulness, owes less to research than to imagination, an instinctive knowledge of the human heart.' Observer 'This novel, so vast and so amiably peopled, is a long, sweet, sleepless pilgrimage to life.' Guardian 'A phenomenon, a prodigy, a marvel of nineteenth-century style storytelling.' Evening Standard 'Seth is the best writer of his generation.' The Times

I would encourage every patriotic Indian looking to contribute to the defence of our motherland to read this book to draw their respective course of actions – Anil Sharma, Producer-Director of Bollywood movie Gadar In the present global environment, to protect their freedom and territorial integrity, countries need armed forces. To complement such forces, reserves are required. This can be met by the creation of a body of part-time soldiers in the form of a territorial army with short-training spells on weekends and holidays. This body, which is fondly known as the citizens' army across the world, can be formed out of all able-bodied men and women who are willing defend their motherland; and in the normal course are engaged in their respective civilian occupations. The officers of this type of army, including those in high staff and leadership positions from the corporate world or otherwise, would principally be citizen-soldiers supported by a limited number of professional soldiers from the regular army. These regular soldiers would comprise the staff and command appointments which require continuity and full-time commitments; and who would also perform permanent technical, administrative and training assignments. Nations which adopt this kind of a military system assume a large and ready defence force of immediate combat value, at a cost to the exchequer, far below that of the more familiar nature of military systems.
