

Learning Through Citizen Science
Strengthening the Financial Future of Families, Communities and the Nation
National Geographic World Cultures and Geography
Catching the Catfishers
Practical ENT
White Guy on the Bus

A young girl describes how her school friend made over a million dollars by creating and marketing a cheaper and better toothpaste.

"Ralph Inzunza, the politician turned author, dramatizes his time in prison in his recently released book, The Camp. He will be discussing and signing his book at San Diego's Warwick Bookstore in La Jolla on October 6th at 7:30 p.m." This book is published by Floricanto Press. www.floricantopress.comThe Camp is a novel inspired by real events, and the story emerges from many conversations with inmates, who had received ten, fifteen, and twenty-year sentences for non-violent offenses at the Atwater Federal Prison Camp in Central California. The protagonist is a law and order, nerdy politician, former Deputy Mayor of a large California city, who goes to prison for "dishonest service of government," and is feeling sorry for himself until the minute he steps inside the fence. El Mayor, as he was called by the inmates, narrates for us first-hand the unfair plight that many of his fellow Paisas, Chicano inmates, are suffering, and the impact of incarceration on working-class families of color in America. As the only person of Mexican descent at the camp with a college degree, who had never smoked a "joint" in his life, he begins to transform in order to survive, and eventually extract his own judicial revenge. Ralph Inzunza received a Bachelor's Degree in Political Science and a Master's Degree in Latin American Studies from San Diego State University. He ran political campaigns and worked on Capitol Hill in Washington D.C. for a United States Congressman, and as a Chief of Staff to a San Diego City Councilman. He ran for a seat on the San Diego City Council in 2001 as a vocal advocate for the downtrodden and the Latino community. After two years of elective office, the downtown power brokers decided they had seen enough of his activism. In 2003 the FBI raided his office, and he was indicted on frivolous charges, "dishonest service of the government."

He fought the charges for nine years, eventually lost, and was forced to surrender in January of 2012. He served for fourteen months at the Atwater Federal Prison Camp, where he began collecting stories of other inmates, and writing about his life-altering experience at "The Camp." On a remote island estate, Annaleigh Thauomas, the sixth-born of twelve sisters, enlists the aid of an alluring stranger to unravel the family curse before it claims her life in this twist on The Twelve Dancing Sisters.

In The Radical Leap Re-Energized, bestselling author Steve Farber tells the complete stories originally published in The Radical Leap and The Radical Edge with a fresh new perspective. Whether you're new to "LEAP" or already count yourself as one of Farber's Extreme Leaders, get set for a radical new approach to leadership. Farber, former vice president of The Tom Peters Company, introduces you to an entertaining, engaging and inspirational tale of how today's leaders can renew their excitement for what they do and encourage others to lead with passion. Find out what it means to take the Radical LEAP: *Cultivate Love *Generate Energy *Inspire Audacity, and *Provide Proof Learn how to fully and passionately engage in the world and change it for the better, whether it's the world of business, family or community. The Radical Leap Re-Energized is a reading experience that will show you how to create a remarkable future for yourself at work and at home.

The Toothpaste Millionaire

Following Atticus

From Democratic Ideal to Market Commodity

Engage the World Change the World

Inside the Effort to Remake the American High School

Lederer on Language

Marriage Markets