Roberto Giglio showcases, on large canvases, postcards of these lifeless landscapes that repeat themselves, illustrated to visitors as a set of viewpoints, traps from which to contemplate the abyss, which is not only the painful observation of the loss of cultural and historical-artistic heritage of a territory, but also as the by-product of violent cancellation, an outright rift inflicted upon the collective memory, which then morphs into an inner sense of psychic unease. It is here that Giglio's work, in my opinion, breaks away from the documentary genre advocated by whistle-blowers, typical of the connoisseur of demo-ethno-anthropological assets, as well as from the militant approach of those who have worked and continue to strive towards reviving their native villages, thereby achieving a universal dimension. The images we are confronted with, and which do not seem to offer us a way out, chronicle the disappearance of communities, while evoking health apocalypses, wars, environmental disasters, and mass extinctions; they remind us of the images that two years ago went viral, announcing the end of the world to human beings locked in their houses, that mistook the solitude of a self-imposed seclusion for the disappearance of all others. 00Exhibition: Museo MARCA, Catanzaro, Italy (07.05.-31.08.2022).

Africa is a source of amazing bio-diversity and home to some of the planet's most spectacular landscapes. The sights of this awe-inspiring continent are captured with consummate skill and sensitivity by master lensman Michael Poliza. With extensive experience photographing the animals and terrain of Africa, Poliza's viewpoint is shaped by his concern for the fragile eco-systems he chronicles. These images embody the soul of Africa's flora and fauna with a true artist's eye for color and composition. This book will be enjoyed for years to come. Poliza started as a child actor on German TV, then founded several highly successful IT ventures in the US and Germany. His "STARSHIP MILLENNIUM VOYAGE," around the world on a 75 ft expedition yacht, was avidly followed by millions via internet. Poliza now focuses mainly on film and photography, including work for the Discovery Channel. He spends a great deal of time based in Cape Town, and is a pioneer in the use of digital photography for illustrated books. ? An ideal gift, both for the lover of fine art photography and the keen naturalist ? A timeless collection highlighting the beauty of Africa's natural riches
