

Marriage Paper

Since she'd joined Dex's new company, Alicia's days had been full of excitement and her nights full of passion in Dex's arms. Then she discovered she was pregnant. While she wanted the baby, would Dex still want her? He'd never shown any desire to marry. Still, the baby prompted a proposal-but no declaration of love. Alicia knew that a marriage on paper could be no substitute for the real thing, but as their wedding day approached, Alicia dared to hope differently. Until their wedding night arrived and a note fell out of Dex's suitcase...

The book is called Marriage is a piece of paper or is it. Its about how people feel in the new millennium about marriage. I conducted 2 surveys about money and marriage. Its about my personal experiences and how i feel about being married. It is controversial but exciting to hear how different people feel. Its enticing and a charming read.. I am only engaged but i have great life teachers my mother and father have been together for over 34+ years. Approaching forty and with her husband in a coma for twelve years following a horrific car accident, Ann McCray is living alone and childless in their dream house, until Tom Nash and his teenage daughter move in next door, and Ann finds herself torn between her growing feelings for the family and her loyalty to her wedding vows. A Billionaire Fake Marriage Romance

Sarah Cameron witnessed her mother being murdered by her stepfather when she was five years old. Due to her young age, her stepfather was able to hide the truth of his wrongdoing. In fact, most people thought she was imagining it. Sarah has lived in constant fear since. Now, her stepfather is attempting to force her into an arranged marriage with a despicable man with the sole intent of controlling her inheritance. Sarah enlists Nick Adams help to prove her stepfather is guilty. Nick agrees to get involved because the same man destroyed his father's newspaper, and he wants both revenge, and validation for the wrongdoing of her stepfather. Will Sarah's accusations be denied again, or will she finally find justice, and along the way fall in love? Publisher's Note: This historical, arranged marriage romance contains elements of mystery, suspense, danger, sensual scenes and a happily ever after.

Marriage Made on Paper When ambitious public relations expert Lily Ford signs a contract with hot-shot property tycoon Gage Forrester, she inadvertently signs her life away! A tough taskmaster, he wants Lily at his beck and call 24/7. Gage expects employees to go above and beyond. So, when he needs to generate some positive PR, his solution is completely unexpected - he proposes to Lily! All in the name of business, of course. This may be a deal struck on paper, but Gage is a stickler for tradition: his bride must wear white on their wedding night! Originally published in 2011.

She owed him—his payback was marriage! Lydie Pearson was convinced that she was the one calling the shots when she asked Jonah Marriott for help saving her family's estate. After all, Lydie's father had helped Jonah build his business, so surely it's now payback time? Only, Lydie is unaware that Jonah is no longer indebted to her family. He helps them, but only because he's an honorable man. Lydie is shocked to discover she now owes Jonah a fortune! Then he delivers an emotional bombshell: the only way he'll allow Lydie to repay him is with her hand in marriage....

ON PAPER, IT'S PRETEND. BUT MY HEART KNOWS WHAT'S REAL. His proposal came in a little black envelope with thirteen unlucky words: You still owe me that favor, doll, and I'm cashing in. Marry me. In a normal life, I'd never get hitched to Calvin Randolph. Not with his heart-stopping blue eyes, infamous player reputation, and an ego bigger than the part of his anatomy he loves boasting about the most. Been there, done that. All except the last part, which he's left to my shameful imagination for seven years apart. Of course, the fake fiancée contract I just signed is anything but normal. Neither was the tragic day our schoolyard romance died, when he made an unspeakable sacrifice. He saved my life. He paid a terrible price. Now, I owe him big. He's come to collect in make believe: the blushing lies, the sideways glances leaving me breathless, the teasing kisses every time his teeth grab my bottom lip in front of the world. It shouldn't be this hard. It's just pretend. It's just a few weeks. I can totally resist the demanding, cold, obscenely handsome man he's become. We have our rules. But the simple one I kept to myself might be harder: don't fall in love. I already did that once. I know the risks. I won't let it happen. Because if his charm steals my heart again, if I let him go all the way when his lips trace scary promises on mine, this paper engagement becomes real enough to ruin us... Minister As Marriage Counselor Paper

The papers in this volume were among the contributions presented at an international symposium, Ancient Marriage in Myth and Reality, which was held at the Swedish Institute in Rome in October 2006. The symposium was held under the aegis of ARACHNE—the Nordic network for women's history and gender studies in Antiquity. The study of ancient marriage has been largely the province of historians working with texts, and the result of this was an emphasis on elite marriages discussed by the male writers of the upper classes and on laws pertaining to marriage. Neither area has been exhausted, as several essays in this new international collection indicate, but the balance among the papers reveals the shift in focus. Along with innovative readings of authors from Livy to Porphyry, we find examinations of demographic and contractual evidence as well as inscriptions and visual imagery. Among the contributors to the volume are: Pauline Schmitt Pantel, Judith Evans Grubbs, Ray Laurence, Marjatta Nielsen and Mary Harlow.

The Matura Paper "Child Marriage: The Differences between the USA and Switzerland" compares child marriage in terms of the difference of the law, the numbers and the problem in these two countries. The paper firstly defines child marriage and presents the UN assessment of child marriage as a global phenomenon. It then gives an overview of the situation in Switzerland and in the USA, including examples from both countries. The research for this paper includes interviews with a Swiss and an American organization. The study found that the law, numbers, the specific problems and their causes are quite different in each country. The numbers affected in Switzerland are a lot smaller than in the USA. In both countries girls are a lot more affected than boys. The problem in the USA is mainly based on the law. Only two states have no clauses that permit marriage of minors. The problem in Switzerland is concentrated in migrant communities, where minors are either married in socially accepted religious ceremonies or sent to a foreign country to be married there. The main common cause is to control sexuality. Western media tends to not talk about the problem but there is some debate on the topic. That is why legal changes have taken place in the USA recently. This Matura Paper was written by Laura Jakob with the supervision of Stefan Spinas. For further information on child marriage in the USA and Switzerland, please read this Matura Paper.

An encyclopedia of marriage rites, traditions, and beliefs from around the world, ranging from ancient practices to contemporary ceremonies. * 200 A-Z entries on wedding practices and beliefs from cultures around the world * Dozens of photographs of weddings and wedding artifacts * Numerous illustrations, including the table plan from Mrs. Beeton's Book of Household Management * A thorough introduction that explores marriage both as a rite and as a ceremony

Marriage and the Economy explores how marriage influences the monetized economy as well as the household economy. Marriage institutions are to the household economy what business institutions are to the monetized economy, and marital status is clearly related to the household economy. Marriage also influences the economy as conventionally measured via its impact on labor supply, workers' productivity, savings, consumption, and government programs such as welfare programs and social security. The macro-economic analyses presented here are based on the micro-economic foundations of cost/benefit analysis, game theory, and market analysis. Micro-economic analysis of marriage, divorce, and behavior within marriages are investigated by a number of specialists in various areas of economics. Western values and laws have been very successful at transforming the way the world does business, but its success at maintaining individual commitments to family values is less impressive. -- from publisher description.

Dr. Bernard examines recent research findings on the present nature of the marriage commitment and predicts a less restrictive role for women in future marriages.

Seduced Into a Paper Marriage

From Henna to Honeymoons

The author describes her online dating experience and being lured from Lithuania to Cyprus to marry what she believed was the love of her life. As an educated European woman who left her whole life, career and family behind, she soon discovers how difficult it is to live with an Asian, Afghani man in a foreign country, and that what is going on there has nothing to do with love, but is a pure business and a paper marriage market. The interracial relationships (Asian men - Afghani, Pakistani, Bengali or Indian marry European women - from Romania, Bulgaria Poland, Czech Republic, Hungary, Croatia, etc.) are dominated by money, and it is a game of either paying or being paid. Illegal boys are pictured to do almost anything to get the precious yellow slip (legal papers granting residency) and leave Cyprus for the Promised European Land, be it Germany, the UK or Scandinavian countries. The phenomena of catfishing, scamming, illegal immigration, lying, betrayal, domestic violence, prostitution and physicality mingle with search for acceptance, life partner and realizing a dream to have a family and a better life. The author alternately describes the stages of the main character's (Renata's) abusive relationship in Cyprus and her visit to Afghanistan along with the lives of different more or less 'paper' couples, their daily struggles to deal with cultural and religious differences as well as immigration. The content of the book is often raw and so is the language (written by a non-native English speaker), which reflects the violence and pathological background of many characters that immigrated to Europe leaving the poverty and degeneration behind (and getting involved here in paper marriage gangs).

Marriages spanning borders are not a new phenomenon, but occur with increasing frequency and contribute substantially to international mobility and transnational engagement. Perhaps because such migration has often been treated as 'secondary' to labor migration, marriage has until recent years been a neglected field in migration studies. In contemporary Europe, transnational marriages have become an increasingly focal issue for immigration regimes, for whom these border-crossing family formations represent a significant challenge. This timely volume brings together work from Europe and beyond, addressing the issue of transnational marriage from a range of perspectives (including legal frameworks, processes of integration, and gendered dynamics), presenting substantial new empirical material, and taking a fresh look at key concepts in this area.
