

Mr Mason World History Book

A true, bestselling story from the battlefield that faithfully portrays the horror, the madness, and the trauma of the Vietnam War More than half a million copies of Chickenhawk have been sold since it was first published in 1983. Now with a new afterword by the author and photographs taken by him during the conflict, this straight-from-the-shoulder account tells the electrifying truth about the helicopter war in Vietnam. This is Robert Mason's astounding personal story of men at war. A veteran of more than one thousand combat missions, Mason gives staggering descriptions that cut to the heart of the combat experience: the fear and belligerence, the quiet insights and raging madness, the lasting friendships and sudden death—the extreme emotions of a “chickenhawk” in constant danger. “Very simply the best book so far about Vietnam.” -St. Louis Post-Dispatch National Book Award Finalist: The most widely read and enduring interpretation of this ancient Babylonian epic. One of the oldest and most universal stories known in literature, the epic of Gilgamesh presents the grand, timeless themes of love and death, loss and reparations, within the stirring tale of a hero-king and his doomed friend. A National Book Award finalist, Herbert Mason's retelling is at once a triumph of scholarship, a masterpiece of style, and a labor of love that grew out of the poet's long affinity with the original. “Mr. Mason's version is the one I would recommend to the first-time reader.” —Victor Howes, The Christian Science Monitor “Like the Tolkien cycle, this poem will be read with profit and joy for generations to come.” —William Alfred, Harvard University

From the acclaimed author of The Drowning People ("A literary sensation"—The New York Times Book Review) and Natural Elements ("A magnum opus"—The New Yorker), an opulent, romantic coming-of-age drama set at the height of Europe's belle époque, written in the grand tradition with a lightness of touch that is wholly modern and original. The novel opens in Amsterdam at the turn of the last century. It moves to New York at the time of the 1907 financial crisis and proceeds onboard a luxury liner headed for Cape Town. It is about a young man—Piet Barol—with an instinctive appreciation for pleasure and a gift for finding it. Piet's father is an austere administrator at Holland's oldest university. His mother, a singing teacher, has died—but not before giving him a thorough grounding in the arts of charm. Piet applies for a job as tutor to the troubled son of Europe's leading hotelier: a child who refuses to leave his family's mansion on Amsterdam's grandest canal. As the young man enters this glittering world, he learns its secrets—and soon, quietly, steadily, finds his life transformed as he in turn transforms the lives of those around him. History of a Pleasure Seeker is a brilliantly written portrait of the senses, a novel about pleasure and those who are in search of it; those who embrace it, luxuriate in it, need it; and those who deprive themselves of it as they do those they love. It is a book that will beguile and transport you—to another world, another time, another state of being.

*Excerpt from History of the Baldwin Locomotive Works: 1831 to 1902 This original stationary engine, constructed prior to 1830, is still in good order and carefully preserved at the Works. It has successively supplled the power in six different departments as they have been opened, from time to time, in the growth of the business. The manufacture of stationary steam engines thus took a prominent place in the establishment, and Mr. Mason shortly afterward withdrew from the partnership. Acclaimed as the standard history of the Keystone State, this book has been updated to cover the 1978 gubernatorial election as well as other developments&—political, economic, social, and cultural&—during the six years since publication of the original edition. Dozens of new illustrations have been added throughout the book, and both the text and the chapter-end bibliographies take account of significant recent scholarship. David Solomon, an M.I.T. Professor, has perfected his dream of a Time Machine and ponders either going backward or forward in time. He is deeply concerned about the social ills throughout the world. He finally decides to transport a charismatic leader to the year 2010 without altering the written course of history. He will bring Jesus of Nazareth to the 21st Century with the help of two Harvard University Graduate Students, Brian Soranno and Martha Valdez. Martha and Brian travel back in time to the year 29 AD during the biblical days, and are tasked to find Jesus, and persuade him to visit mankind in the year 2010. Jesus meets the Pope and delivers a message from inside Vatican City to the clergy of the Catholic Church and also to the people of the world. History is made in the 21st Century, and becomes part of mankind's legacy for future descendants. If you invented a Time Machine, what would you use it for? Mr. Mason was born in Winthrop, MA and was raised in Lynn, MA as a Roman Catholic. He is the oldest of six brothers and was active in organized sports while growing up. After graduating from high school, he left home for Topeka, Kansas to attend college in the Bible Belt of America and eventually transferred to the University of Arizona where he earned a BS/BA degree. Mr. Mason lives in the San Francisco Bay Area with his wife.

Excerpt from The Portsmouth Race of Monsons-Munsons-Mansons: Comprising Richard Monson and His Descendants, Being a Contribution to the Genealogy and History of Five Generations, With Some Extensions in Part II Mr. Mason designs to continue his researches, first and foremost in the Machias branch, the descendants of Joseph of Scarborough; and secondly, and thirdly (we trust) along other lines, as opportunity may permit and enable him to do. May the readers of this paragraph enjoy the product of his exertions in printed form. Sources of Information. - Most of the material of the book, and a larger proportion of its value, has been obtained From original sources. The raw material is scant, rendering the efforts of the historian exceptionally difficult. Sack pole, author of Old Kittery and Her Families, 822 pp., 1903, says, The records of the family are very meager in Kittery. In default of information, he devotes nine lines to this Family! Titus, an antiquarian of large experience, with whom difficult questions are a specialty, declares that, Material is scarce on the family. To these declarations every investigator must assent. Some information has been gained by personal interviews, but they have not been very numerous and they have seldom been very illuminating. Correspondence, in several cases, has yielded very valuable statistics and other particulars of a general character. Part mystery, part war story, part romance." --Anthony Doerr, author of All the Light We Cannot See Vienna, 1914. Lucius is a twenty-two-year-old medical student when World War I explodes across Europe. Enraptured by romantic tales of battlefield surgery, he enlists, expecting a position at a well-organized field hospital. But when he arrives, at a commandeered church tucked away high in a remote valley of the Carpathian Mountains, he finds a freezing outpost ravaged by typhus. The other doctors have fled, and only a single, mysterious nurse named Sister Margarete remains. But Lucius has never lifted a surgeon's scalpel. And as the war rages across the winter landscape, he finds himself falling in love with the woman from whom he must learn a brutal, makeshift medicine. Then one day, an unconscious soldier is brought in from the snow, his uniform stuffed with strange drawings. He seems beyond rescue, until Lucius makes a fateful decision that will change the lives of doctor, patient, and nurse forever. From the gilded ballrooms of Imperial Vienna to the frozen forests of the Eastern Front; from hardscrabble operating rooms to battlefields thundering with Cossack cavalry, The Winter Soldier is the story of war and medicine, of family, of finding love in the sweeping tides of history, and finally, of the mistakes we make, and the precious opportunities to atone.

Notes and Queries

In this timely, provocative, illuminating, and often shocking book, New York Times bestselling author Richard Shenkman provides a vital context for understanding the American presidents, today and throughout history. Combining a potent narrative with persuasive and compelling insights, Shenkman reveals that it is not just recent presidents who have been ambitious--and at times frighteningly overambitious, willing to sacrifice their health, family, loyalty, and values as they sought to overcome the obstacles to power--but they all have. This volcanic ambition, Shenkman shows, has been essential not only in obtaining power but in facing--and attempting to master--the great historical forces that have continually reshaped the United States, from Manifest Destiny and Emancipation to immigration, the Great Depression, and nuclear weapons. As Shenkman describes the lives and careers of the most representative and colorful presidents from Washington to Nixon, he shows that those who succeeded in reaching the White House, whatever their flaws, were complicated human beings, idealistic as well as ambitious. Over time, however, they began to make increasingly troubling compromises, leading to a decline in t he mortal tone of American politics. What drove politics downward? In a stunning conclusion, Shenkman demonstrates that it wasn't a decline in presidential character that was responsible, but change--the dramatic transformation of the United States from a country of four million in Washington's day to more than a quarter billion today--that made running the country more complicated and difficult. Instead of things getting better and better they got worse and worse as people became used to increasingly promiscuous political practices. First John Adams played politics with national security. Then James Polk lied the country into war. James Buchana tolerated the bribing of congressmen. Ulysses S. Grant ignored shocking corruption. Rutehrford B. Hayes became the first of several presidents to win election through vote stealing. Grover Cleveland pandered to immigrants. Teddy Roosevelt precipitated an international crises to improve his chances of election. FDR used the IRS to go after his political enemies. Harry Truman faked a war scare. John Kennedy played God with nuclear missiles. And Lyndon Johnson lied and lied and lied. Sympathetic but balanced in his presentation of the presidents' behavior, in his richly detailed portraits Shenkman shows just how resourceful they had to be to survive and succeed. Presidential Ambition--dramatic, lively, and nakedly honest--is a book that will permanently alter the way we think about past, present, and future American presidents. A New York Times Notable Book A San Francisco Chronicle, San Jose Mercury News, and Los Angeles Times Best Book of the Year "A gripping and resonant novel. . . . It immerses the reader in a distant world with startling immediacy and ardor. . . . Riveting." --Michiko Kakutani, The New York Times In 1886 a shy, middle-aged piano tuner named Edgar Drake receives an unusual commission from the British War Office: to travel to the remote jungles of northeast Burma and there repair a rare piano belonging to an eccentric army surgeon who has proven mysteriously indispensable to the imperial design. From this irresistible beginning, The Piano Tuner launches readers into a world of seductive, vibrantly rendered characters, and enmeshes them in an unbreakable spell of storytelling.
