The 40Act states that the interests of shareholders are compromised when mutual funds are operated in the interest of fund advisers. In this regard, one of the Act's major objectives is to ensure investors receive adequate and accurate information. They do not. For this reason, Congress, the SEC, fund advisers and independent directors, and the fund industry must focus on the goal of requiring across the board normative transparency of disclosure. This disclosure includes adoption of “best practices” over the current focus on “rule-making,” which allows incorrect accounting and incomplete, missing, misleading and perfunctory disclosure. Adoption of the Total Expense Ratio construct and its components would provide a major portion of what is needed in the way of normative transparency of disclosure by placing upfront its four major categories of fees and their sub-categories. In so doing, current indirect fund shareholder payments by advisers/distributors would no longer be “behind the mutual fund curtain.” There would also be continual need to benchmark. By making these payments “behind the mutual fund curtain” upfront and transparent, there will be increased pressure on fund advisers and independent directors, the fund industry, Congress, and the SEC to prohibit inappropriate fund practices and actions, most importantly, selling group payments of dealer concessions and customer servicing fees, the several types of revenue sharing payments, and costly soft-dollar trades. If successful, there would also be continual need to benchmark normative transparency if it is to be maintained with future changing conditions. But, while improvements in regulatory disclosure are likely to occur over time, it is most unlikely the political process will achieve complete normative transparency of disclosure. However, industry and political obstacles for reform are more likely to be overcome if major “shareholder friendly” fund advisers and dedicated independent directors work collectively, vigorously, and proactively for Congressional and SEC legal and regulatory action. However, such success will be difficult to attain because of the powerful influence of many major mutual fund advisers who benefit greatly from the regulatory status quo, and at the great expense of fund shareholders.

In a futuristic world, a nurse practitioner and a doctor are encouraged to begin dating by Voison Noteau, the elderly author of a book that accurately foretold of Boomerangthe moment in 2036 when an asteroid hit Earth and caused a disaster of epic proportions. Unfortunately now some fifty years after Voison penned the prophetic story that was eventually optioned into a Hollywood movie, the original manuscript is missing. When Carol Applegate and Dr. Razguptra finally go on their first date, she is drugged. As Dr. Razguptra attempts to discover who slipped her the drugs, he has no idea that there are those who want Carol silenced because of her knowledge about Voisons book. As a detective and his partner are pulled in to investigate the strange efficient fund investment decisions. To attain normative transparency of mutual funds disclosure, Congress, the SEC, and fund advisers, managers and independent directors should individually and collectively become more proactive in serving and protecting shareholders. Normative transparency of disclosure is not likely to be achieved across the board. There are political obstacles to complete transparency being achieved by Congress and the SEC, or by collaboration with individual funds, the funds industry and its trade association. The final reality is that it will likely fall to independent directors of individual mutual funds to provide normative transparency of disclosure for their shareholders. And, what should be done will also change over time as the industry evolves. Future study of normative transparency of mutual fund disclosure should continue to find its way across the breadth of fund laws, regulations, and practices. Included should be assessment of the fund cost and performance differences to current shareholders from flow (portfolio changes due to investor purchases and in the position to enforce this obligation. This gives rise to the question how the effects of disclosure in the capital market (towards investors and creditors) and the effects of disclosure in the product market can be aligned. In order to give a full account of the framework, both the legal rules on disclosure under EC law and the basic economic concepts on the interaction of product and capital markets are laid out. A decisive role is played by quot;competitive costsquot;, i.e. the costs resulting from a disadvantage in the product market. because it prevents companies from deliberately disclosing sensitive data to existing and potential investors and creditors. Taking a closer look one finds out that there exist three basic situations where the efficiency aims in the product market and in the financial market clash: The access of competitors, suppliers or customers to "innovative" data, the abuse of a dominant market position in the course of "predatory pricing"; and the mutual exchange of sensitive data in an oligopolistic setting. An economic analysis of the interaction between product and financial markets leads several policy proposals: a first

Providing liquidity to investors can have a larger impact on fund performance than the current regulatory expense ratio.

Legal Companion provides all the practical legal information that software developers need to protect themselves. The accompanying disk includes agreements for licensing, software authorization, assignments, marketing, confidentiality and nondisclosure, and more.

The purpose of this book is to define the process and protocols of the TASASS™ score. It also serves as the textbook for the USCGA™ TASASS™ certification course. It was written as a manual for students, entrepreneurs, finance professionals, advisors, and consultants. It defines the types of capital available and documentation requirements to achieve “success” in the capital marketplace. "Success" is defined as a trifecta of: 1) the enterprise acquiring capital; 2) the business becoming successful and 3) the capital source(s) receiving a positive outcome. Business Capital 101 provides clarity in an otherwise complicated environment of gaining access to capital for qualified enterprises. Our mission is to provide a compliant, professional, time-sensitive, cost-conscious, and realistic approach to the business finance process. We accomplish this mission by the implementation of a due diligence process known as the TASASS™ score. The TASASS™ score was developed as a result of a study of more than 300 enterprises engaged by me since 2008 wherein, I was able to determine the more than 300 common attributes amongst successful and failed ventures. The TASASS™ score is a combination of a Transaction Analysis™ (TA), a Situation Analysis™ (SA) implemented in a Software (S) that results in a Score (S). The TASASS™ score is a standardized objective due diligence process that serves capital markets during the enterprise vetting phase of capitalization. The software was created based on a 10-year study of 300 applicants. The goal of the proprietary Software as a Service (SaaS) is to identify opportunities that achieve a TASASS™ score in excess of 92.5%, known as “TASASS Prime™.” TASASS™ is an acronym for: Transaction Analysis Situation Analysis Scoring Software™. The TASASS™ score was developed by Tony Drexel Smith through the financial and human capital resources of: TASASS, Inc, The Association of Blue Moon Advisors, Blue Moon Advisors, Inc., Blue Moon Consortium, Inc., US Capital Global, SUMATICI, Inc., and TD Smith & Associates. Enterprises that have raised capital successfully have the following commonalities: they sought the right type of capital for their stage of development and ability to repay; they created documentation that speaks to the correct capital; and they earned a minimum of 925 out of the 1,000 points possible in our TASASS™ score.
