It has been stated that information is the currency of the 21st century, and billions of words are added every minute to the mountains of words in the library of human existence. This mountain at most can be very intimidating and mind boggling, and navigating through the burrows and rows of words in this library, searching for new information or knowledge, can be very daunting. No wonder, through the help of technology, the world is gradually moving from "Do it for us", to Do it yourself". But doing it yourself, requires skills, time, patience and resilience. Since, it has no doubt, increasingly become difficult for people to do research online, access relevant information, or develop new skills, probably due to the constraint of time. It is our quest to help you overcome all these constraints, which gave birth to the book "DO IT YOURSELF". Do it yourself, is the most comprehensive guide of How to's, in any subject matter that is of interest to you. We gracefully understand what it takes to browse through thousands or even millions of pages online, looking for information on the new skill you want to acquire, or the new information you want to access, we have therefore save you time and money by compiling all the information in a book form, to save you millions of hours of research, data, and loss of quality time with loved ones. Do it yourself is therefore aimed at helping you achieve more and become better with less efforts, which will directly or indirectly change your way of thinking for the betterment of your life and that of others.

The idea that you need a travel agent to plan and book your trip belongs in the last century. I've travelled across Europe, solo and on a budget since 2013 and have been living in Germany for close to 10 years. Somehow, planning for a trip especially the first few has always been a big pain in the a**. Add to that limited budget and time to plan, and you have a big headache. The truth is, that not everyone can afford to spend hundreds of dollars on a custom itinerary from a travel agent nor do we have hundreds of hours to spend on researching across thousands of blogs, booking platforms and travel websites. I've compiled everything I know about planning, preparing and booking a Europe trip in a practical, precise manner in this book, to help you save a shit ton of time and money when doing the same thing as the mistakes I did on my first couple of trips. Planning your dream trip doesn't need to be expensive or time-consuming. With this handbook, you'll find out exactly how. Here's what you can expect inside: - Money saving tips. Whether it's about food in Europe or which mode of transport to cover, you are covered. - Budgeting guidelines. How much to budget as a bare minimum and average for 56 European cities for two people. - Itinerary suggestions. Ten different itineraries with various combinations cutting through every region of Europe from one week to two months. - Top Highlights to see, where to stay (with clickable direct links and cost) and what local dish to try in Europe's top 20 most visited cities. - Visa Tips. The documents you need to apply for a Schengen visa, timelines to make sure your visa doesn't get rejected. - Packing list. A detailed packing list with must-have essentials to save you unnecessary costs in Europe. - Practical info. Customs regulations, safety, language. Everything you need to know as a first-timer in Europe. - Booking resources and links. Every provider you need to know whether it is for renting a car, finding a place to stay or a local walking tour. As a big thank you to the readers, I have included some bonuses for booking stay and flights that are worth over $60. p.p1 {margin: 0.0px 0.0px 0.0px 0.0px; font: 12.0px 'Helvetica Neue'; color: #000000; text-decoration: underline}

This book examines the timely topic of controlling the borders of the European Schengen Area. It considers the state perspective on border regulation, subjecting day-to-day practices of EU visa policy implementation to close analytical scrutiny. The objects of the analysis are three European Member States—France, Belgium, and Italy—that implement EU visa policy in Morocco, a country whose nationals are considered to be a migratory 'risk' for the EU. The book focuses on the implementation of EU visa policy in the consulates of Belgium, France and Italy in Casablanca. The empirical research and the comparative perspective make this book distinct. The book uses a 'comprehensive implementation approach' by taking account of the local, national and supranational locations of policy-making. It builds on in-depth pioneering fieldwork and a comparative research design that includes those three locations. The research design has determined the evolving of the puzzle and the realizing of the unanticipated: cross-national differences diminish when policy is put into practice. Extensive research into the visa sections of those EU Member States provides highly original material that sheds light on the obscure black box of EU visa policy implementation, therefore contributing to policy studies, migration studies, and studies on the European Union.

This volume offers an evaluation of the Schengen Information System and border control co-operation from a transparency and proportionality perspective. It also incorporates a legal descriptive analysis of the co-operation in order to accommodate the changes and developments that occurred during the writing period. The transparency and proportionality perspectives are developed from human rights and data protection criteria. Transparency is understood as knowledge and accessibility to legal information as well as openness and accountability. On the other hand, proportionality is a requirement for guidance, balance and justification as well as a need to avoid excessiveness and arbitrariness in border control work. The final findings reveal that the Schengen co-operation suffers from a deficiency of transparency and proportionality. Consequently, measures are proposed to augment the deficiency. Even as this study was reaching its conclusion, fundamental legislative changes, closely similar to some of the arguments and recommendations projected in this study, took place. The efficacy of these changes is yet to be discerned.

This book brings together contributions from some of the leading authorities in the field of EU immigration and asylum law to reflect upon developments since the Amsterdam Treaty and, particularly, the Tampere European Council in 1999. At Tampere, Heads of State and Government met to set guidelines for the implementation of the powers and competences introduced by the Amsterdam Treaty and make the development of the Union as an area of freedom, security and justice a reality. Since 1999, a substantial body of law and policy has developed, but the process has been lengthy and the results open to critique. This book presents a series of analyses of and reflections on the major legal instruments and policy themes, with the underlying question, to what extent the ideals held out of 'freedom, security and justice accessible to all', are in fact reflected in these legislative and policy developments. Has freedom from terrorism and the spectre of illegal or irregular migration, and increasingly strict border securitisation and surveillance overshadowed the freedom of the migrant to seek entry or residence for legitimate touristic, work, study, or family reasons, a secure refuge from persecution, and effective access to justice? In 2004, the Heads of State and Government presented a programme for the next stage of development in these areas, the Hague Programme, and the Directives and Regulations that have been agreed are now being transposed and applied in Member States legal systems. What are the main challenges in the years ahead as the Hague Programme and the existing legislative acquis are implemented?

Readers of Imray's East Coast Pilot will need no introduction to Garth Cooper whose familiarity with North Sea passage-making is evident in the practical guidance he gives. Under his authorship, this edition has been restructured to reflect the changing nature of passages across the North Sea. As well as a consideration of the various Traffic Separation Schemes, routes take into account the many new offshore windfarms and oil and gas extraction platforms. As its name suggests, the emphasis of this pilot is on the passage routes, whether taking a more direct line between the UK and the Continent or incorporating hops along the East Coast and the adjacent coasts of France, Belgium and Holland. Pilotage is included for a selection of key ports. Updated plans and numerous new photographs help to illustrate the key features to help guide you across this challenging yet rewarding stretch of water.

It also covers the institutional framework for these issues, the related human rights aspects, and the connections with other areas of EU law, like the free movement of EU citizens. Steve Peers' seminal text on the justice and home affairs law of the European Union appears in its fourth edition and is now available in two separate volumes covering asylum and immigration law, and criminal law, policing, and civil law, and as a two-volume set. It provides a detailed examination of EU legislation and case law on the issues of immigration, asylum, visas, border controls, and police and criminal law cooperation, discussing the impact and ongoing development of EU law. This edition is the definitive guide to these intricate, contentious, and fast-developing areas of EU law, and will be invaluable to scholars, practitioners, and students in the field.
