Layla Walker never imagined living in Jackson Hole until she inherited her grandfather's veterinary practice. But at least there's a lifestyle club available where she can get her so-not-vanilla needs met. And yet, there isn't a single cowboy at the club who makes her stop and take notice... until the night she gets called in for an emergency at Hunt Trail Rides and she runs into the owner. He's big and brawny, looking more like a throwback to a Scottish raider than a modern-day cowboy. And then there's the little fact that he kisses her brainless in under five seconds. That had to be a world record, at least in her book. Alex Hunt keeps women at a distance. It's not that he doesn't partake of the bountiful submissives at his lifestyle club - he does - but he doesn't let them get close. Abandoned by his mother as a child, now in his mid-thirties, he's resigned himself to living the bachelor life... until one sexy hot veterinarian waltzes into his barn and helps save his foaling mare. Now he's had a taste of heaven in a kiss that should have never happened, and he can't help but want more of her seductive embrace. And he will stop at nothing to draw her into his world - and his bed. But there's a thin line between love and lust, fear and trust. Will Layla be able to let go of her fear and trust Alex? Or will she run away and prove to him that women can't be trusted to stay? Publisher's Note: This steamy romance contains elements of power exchange. While it's the sixth book in the Cuffs & Spurs series, it can be read and enjoyed as a standalone.

For the better part of three decades romance comics were an American institution. Nearly 6000 titles were published between 1947 and 1977, and for a time one in five comics sold in the U.S. was a romance comic. This first full-length study examines the several types of romance comics, their creators and publishing history. The author explores significant periods in the development of the genre, including the origins of Archie Comics and other teen publications, the romance comic "boom and bust" of the 1950s, and their sudden disappearance when fantasy and superhero comics began to dominate in the late 1970s.

Attempting to recover from his betrayal, Holly swears off the affections of men in order to pick up the pieces of her crumbling life. Unfortunately, meeting Jake 'Hooligan' Peters is not part of her plan. Or, will she fall victim to a betrayal of the heart yet again?

In 1927, tired of the literary life of New York City, New Orleans, and Chicago, a famous but aging American writer named Sherwood Anderson (1876-1941) -- author of Winesburg, Ohio(1919) and other short stories in which he virtually invented the modern American short-story -- moved to rural Southwest Virginia to write for and edit two small-town weekly newspaper that he owned, the Marion Democrat. and the Smyth County News. Living again among the small-town figures with whom he was usually most content, William Faulkner, Thomas Wolf, and indeed an entire generation of the greatest American writers -- worked for several years at making his newspaper nationally famous while struggling to come to terms with a life-threatening psychological depression and a failing third marriage. Both of Anderson's midlife problems were complicated when he met Eleanor Copenhaver, lovely young daughter in one of the prominent first families of Marion and a career social worker for the YWCA. Trying to keep their ardent affair secret in the small town, Anderson avidly courted the socially prominent and much younger Miss Copenhaver while at the same time trying to free himself from his embittered third wife and overcome the disadvantages of his age and his lover's family's distrust of him. Having by the end of 1931 continued for three years his surreptitious and consuming affair with Miss Copenhaver, Anderson determined on the first day of 1932 that the new year should be the year of decisions for him to gain his love in marriage or perhaps to end his life, and he began the new year with a creative venture unique in literature. Starting on January 1, Anderson secretly wrote and hid away for Eleanor Copenhaver to find after his eventual death one letter each day, letters that she should someday discover, whether they had ever become married or not, and thereby relive in her memory their days of intense lovemaking a mutual despair about their then-unlikely marriage. Found by Eleanor Copenhaver Anderson only at Sherwood Anderson's death in 1941 and then preserved intact by this grieving widow who had married Anderson in 1933, the carefully hidden letters of 1932 recording their intense and seemingly doomed love affair have remained secret until now. Chosen by Eleanor Copenhaver Anderson before her death in 1985 to publish her husband's secret love letters, Anderson scholar Ray Lewis White has prepared a fascinating edition of these unique letters for the enjoyment of students and scholars of literature as well as for all other readers who savor compelling and inspiring stories of loss and love.

We commonly think of society as made of and by humans, but with the proliferation of machine learning and AI technologies, this is clearly no longer the case. Billions of automated systems tacitly contribute to the social construction of reality by drawing algorithmic distinctions between the visible and the invisible, the relevant and the irrelevant, the likely and the unlikely - on and beyond platforms. Drawing on the work of Pierre Bourdieu, this book develops an original sociology of algorithms as social agents, actively participating in social life. Through a wide range of examples, Massimo Airoidi shows how society shapes algorithmic code, and how this culture in the code guides the practical behaviour of the code in the culture, shaping society in turn. The 'machine habitus' is the generative mechanism at work throughout myriads of feedback loops linking humans with artificial social agents, in the context of digital infrastructures and pre-digital social structures. Machine Habitus will be of great interest to students and scholars in sociology, media and cultural studies, science and technology studies and information technology, and to anyone interested in the growing role of algorithms and AI in our social and cultural life.

HIS TEMPTING LOVE Cora has a plan: move to a new town and make a better life for herself and her son. As a single mom, she 's not looking for a relationship of any kind. But at least there 's a lifestyle club available where she can get her so-not-vanilla needs met. And yet, there isn 't a single cowboy at the club who makes her stop and take notice... until the night she gets called in for an emergency at Hunt Trail Rides and runs into the owner. Spencer is rude and obnoxious, with his bad boy swagger, but then he rescues her when she gets stranded on the side of the road, like a knight in tarnished armor, and sweeps her away to his house to ride out the blizzard. As the storm rages around them, they surrender to a passion hotter than the sun. HIS CHERISHED LOVE Rayna 's entire life is a lie. She avoids relationships as if they were the plague – mainly because the people who get close to her wind up dead. And yet her newest next door neighbor, the sexy, stoic Jack, is making her want to break all her rules. The problem is, he 's a cop, and she doesn 't know how long it will take before her past catches up to her and all her secrets are revealed.
