For the Submission of Fate Series: Book Two

Distilled wisdom from two publishing pros for every serious nonfiction author in search of big commercial success. Over 50,000 books are published in America each year, the vast majority nonfiction. Even so, many writers are stymied in getting their books published, never mind gaining significant attention for their ideas—and substantial sales. This is the book editors have been recommending to would-be authors. Filled with trade secrets, Thinking Like Your Editor explains: • why every proposal should ask and answer five key questions; • how to tailor academic writing to a general reader, without losing ideas or dumbing down your work; • how to write a proposal that editors cannot ignore; • why the most important chapter is your introduction; • why "simple structure, complex ideas" is the mantra for creating serious nonfiction; • why smart nonfiction editors regularly reject great writing but find new arguments irresistible. Whatever the topic, from history to business, science to philosophy, law, or gender studies, this book is vital to every serious nonfiction writer.

To the outside world, Laura has everything: she's young, beautiful and successful. Yet she harbours a deep secret - she hungers to be dominated and used by others for their sexual gratification. Seeking a teacher to help her explore her lusty cravings, Laura encounters Natalya, a Dominatrix with a fierce desire to dominate and control. Together the pair embark on a journey to unlock Laura's deepest, most depraved desires. The second book of the Submission's Pawn trilogy sees the relationship between Laura and Natalya deepen, and the boundary between Mistress and Slave begins to blur.

Ari faces an impossible ultimatum: she needs to decide whether to accept Raffaello Palazzo's indecent proposal and stay at his side as his bought mistress, under his complete control in his world and in his bedroom. Rafe holds the keys to her mother's happiness, and Ari must choose love for her mother or respect for herself and for the morals her mother instilled in her. Presents fantasy stories written by Internet authors that explore how people, cultures, and societies are affected by the predictions of the Machine, an object that provides short yet vague phrases about how a person will die.

A step-by-step guide to crafting a compelling scholarly book proposal—and seeing your book through to successful publication. The scholarly book proposal may be academia's most mysterious genre. You have to write one to get published, but most scholars receive no training on how to do so—and you may have never even seen a proposal before you're expected to produce your own. The Book Proposal Book cuts through the mystery and guides prospective authors step by step through the process of crafting a compelling proposal and pitching it to university presses and other academic publishers. Laura Portwood-Stacer, an experienced developmental editor and publishing consultant for academic authors, shows how to select the right presses to target, identify audiences and competing titles, and write a project description that will grab the attention of editors—breaking the entire process into discrete, manageable tasks. The book features over fifty time-tested tips to make your proposal stand out; sample prospectuses, a letter of inquiry, and a response to reader reports from real authors; optional worksheets and checklists; answers to dozens of the most common questions about the scholarly publishing process; and much, much more. Whether you're hoping to publish your first book or you're a seasoned author with an unfinished proposal languishing on your hard drive, The Book Proposal Book provides honest, empathetic, and invaluable advice on how to overcome common sticking points and get your book published. It also shows why, far from being merely a hurdle to clear, a well-conceived proposal can help lead to an outstanding book.

Lindsey had big plans for her post-art school life--a successful art career, excitement, adventure, meeting the man of her dreams. She never expected she'd end up joining a sugar baby website to pay off her crippling debt. And she definitely didn't expect that her first client would be a charming, vivacious woman named Camilla. The older woman has an unusual proposal for Lindsey--move into her mansion for three months as her girlfriend and submissive, and all of Lindsey's financial woes will disappear. It's the perfect solution to Lindsey's problems, and she can't say no to three months of pleasure and luxury beyond her wildest dreams. Camilla has made it clear that she's comfortable with the arrangement. A difficult life has left the solitary woman hesitant to let anyone get too close. And Lindsey isn't attracted to women, anyway. It's all just a charade. Until it isn't. When Lindsey can no longer deny her feelings toward her Mistress, she runs the risk of losing everything. It was all supposed to be pretend. One big lie. What happens when the lie becomes the truth?

Stubborn to a fault, Jane is not a well-liked person in school. She's eighteen-years-old and tutoring her peers, trying to get them to not fail their course so they can graduate. She's doing them a solid, really. Sadly, they don't see it that way. When her car tires are punctured, she finds herself having to take the train instead. There, she meets a dangerously alluring foreigner who awakens perverse desires inside her. His dominating voice and expert hands send hot flavors of desire through her and she is too weak to resist. She finds herself surrendering to him eagerly, taking off her clothes in public and letting him do perverse things her, including showing her off to the other strangers on the train as he takes her... ~~~~~ PG Excerpt ~~~~~ "That was close, wasn't it?" he chuckles. She huffs and levels him with a glare that only makes him grin harder. She has never dressed so fast in her life. The moment she heard the sound of the train coming, she flew to action, grabbing her shirt and pulling it over her head without thinking. Her pants was tugged on haphazardly and she had forgotten her underwear altogether. Abel half pulls half carries her to the train and when he turns around to see that she has most of her clothes back on, he looks almost disappointed. Thankfully, the section of the train they're in is completely empty. "Hold on!" someone shouts from outside, as if there was anything they could do to delay the train from moving away. They turn to the source of the sound and her eyes widen. It's her classmates, the very same one she had left in school earlier. "Miss Jane!" Jack's cheeks are tinted red and he's breathing heavily, as were the rest of the men who had managed to hop onto the train right before the automatic doors slide close and the train announced it's departure. Tyler, Carter, and Kyle trail after him, looking a little bit sheepish, like schoolboys getting caught doing something they shouldn't have. She has a brief, somewhat paralyzing thought that they were the one who have done something to her car, but surely they don't- They do look especially guilty. "Do you know each other?" Abel asks, clearing coming to the same conclusion she has. "Yeah," she says. She has almost forgotten that he was there at all. He looks particularly handsome, stepping up in front of her, like some sort of knight in shining armor ready to come to her defense. "Who's this?" Jack glares at her new friend and she wonders if the jealousy she sees in his expression is sincere or merely a figment of her imagination. He's a little bit older than her and he's been flirting aggressively with her since the beginning, but she was so certain that he's just messing around. "This is Abel. He's um-" she frowns. Are they friends? She barely knows him. She doesn't even know what he does for a living. Her face burns red with embarrassment from all the thing she's allowed the perfect stranger to do to her. She is filled by the sudden urge to wrap her arms around herself, but she isn't wearing her bra. Oh gods. They're going to notice, aren't they? She's going to be in so much trouble-

One Night With Him

As the 2022 French Presidential election looms, two candidates emerge as favourites: Marine Le Pen of the Front National, and the charismatic Muhammed Ben Abbes of the growing Muslim Fraternity. Forming a controversial alliance with the political left to block the Front National's alarming ascendancy, Ben Abbes sweeps to power, and overnight the country is transformed. This proves to be the death knell of French secularism, as Islamic law comes into force: women are veiled, polygamy is encouraged and, for our narrator François – misanthropic, middle-aged and alienated – life is set on a new course. Submission is a devastating satire, comic and melancholy by turns, and a profound meditation on faith and meaning in Western society.
