Eid is the main festival of Muslims. It is also known as the festival of expressing gratitude to Allah. Eid means festivities and Fitr means charity. Hence, Eid-UI-Fitr means the festival of charity. It is the festival to celebrate with pure heart and devotion and follow the path of truth and righteousness to attain Allah's blessings. The three essays in this volume give a graphic account of Indian Muslim festivals in the nineteenth century, as observed by the participants themselves. The majority of these participants were Hindus who added their own practices to these supposedly Islamic events. The French Indologist de Tassy adds his own pungent comments to those of his sources, thus providing in this volume a fascinating interplay of cultural perspectives. This is the first translation into English of this classic nineteenth-century French work.
